McGivern, Culhane—Second Trial Begins

KINGSTON

A second trial for two Auburn prison inmates accused of murder in the shooting death of a Westchester County deputy sheriff on the State Thruway in September, 1968, was scheduled to begin late today before Ulster County Judge Raymond J. Mino.

The defendants, Charles McGivern and Gerald Culhane arrived in custody of deputies from the staff of Sheriff William B. Martin at the county Jail at about 9:30 a.m.

McGivern and Culhane were tried last June before a jury of nine men and three women and ended abruptly on June 23 when the jurors reported to Judge Mino after seven hours of deliberation that they were "hopelessly deadlocked" and said they would be unable to agree on a verdict even if they deliberated further.

A mistrial was declared and Judge Mino directed that a new trial be held. The defendants at that time were returned to the Green Haven Prison in Dutchess County.

The two defendants were indicted on charges of murder following their arrests by State Police during the investigation of the killing of 63-year-old William Fitzgerald, a deputy sheriff of North Tarrytown, on Sept. 13, 1968.

The trial last June was in its fourth week when the jury reported the disagreement and was discharged.

McGivern and Culhane were serving terms in the Auburn State Prison on the day Fitzgerald was fatally wounded during a bizarre shootout that occurred on the superhighway near the Town of Plattekill rest area. They were being taken from the upstate facility to Westchester County for a hearing in White Plains on an application obtained by Culhane relating to a case involving the defendant, on the day of the shooting.

Authorities said that the shooting occurred when Culhane, McGivern and another Auburn inmate, Robert Bowerman, allegedly attempted to escape from custody.

During the shooting incident, Fitzgerald was fatally wounded. Bowerman also died of bullet wounds as the result of the shootout.

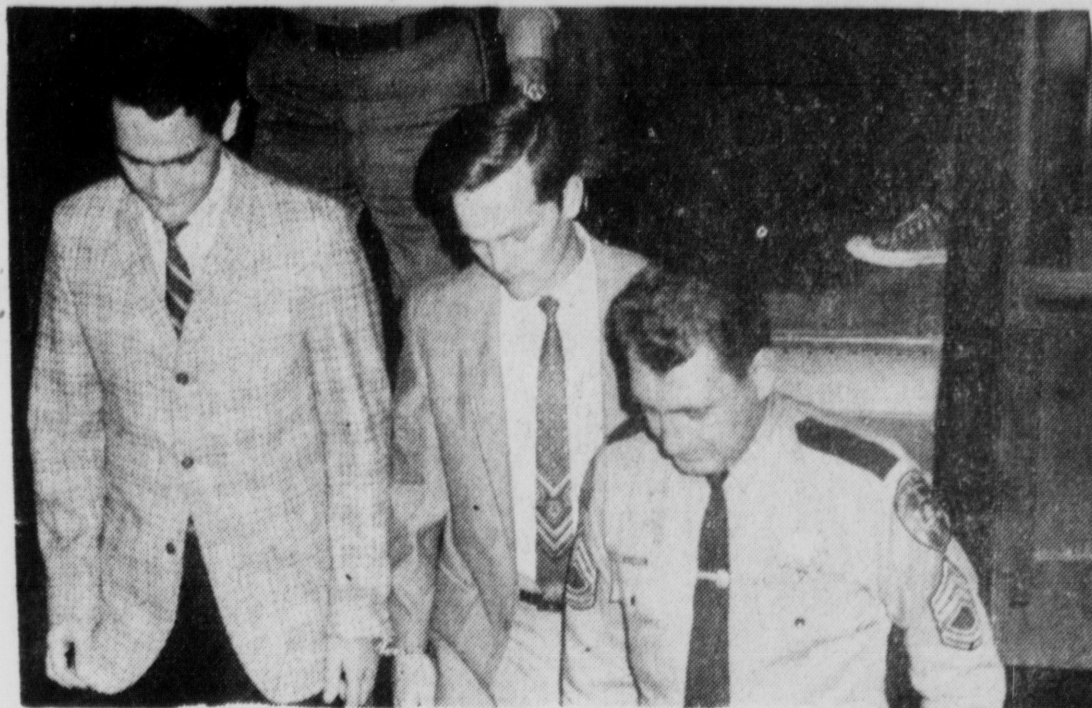

Joseph Singer, another elderly deputy sheriff from North Tarrytown, accompanied upstate, and was present at the time of the fatal incident.

Singer was a key witness for the prosecution at the first trial.

It is expected that the selection of a trial jury in the case probably will take several days before counsel for both sides accept a jury of 12 and two alternate jurors.

Witnesses for the prosecution also will include a number of State Police investigators and men from the State Police laboratory, along with medical men who participated in the early phases of the case following the September incident.

At the first trial it was brought out through questioning of witnesses that the hearing in White Plains involved a writ of coram nobis that had been applied for by Culhane, who had sought to have a sentence previously imposed, set aside.

Main Street Fire Under Investigation

Police and fire officials today continued investigation of a serious fire that extensively damaged the 2-story frame residence at 276 Main Street early Sunday. The origin of the blaze was considered suspicious by authorities. Firefighter Francis Diamond suffered lacerations of the right hand while assisting at the scene. Police arrested

Edwin Conerty, 45, who resided on the first floor, on a charge of public intoxication. Deputy Chief Harry Sills was in charge of fire units who battled the flames more than an hour and confined most of the fire damage to the lower floor and exterior of the residence. (Powell photo.)

Hanoi Infiltration Heavy in Cambodia

WASHINGTON (AP) — North Vietnam has stepped up its troop infiltration southward so far this year but about 25 per cent of its reinforcements apparently are being diverted to Cambodia, according to Pentagon sources.

U.S. military analysts studying infiltration figures for the first 10 months of 1970 estimate nearly 60,000 North Vietnamese soldiers have infiltrated South Vietnam and another 20,000 passed through southern Laos into Cambodia.

By comparison, about 67,000 North Vietnamese soldiers were estimated to have infiltrated in the first 10 months of 1969, all but about 1,500 into South Vietnam.

This suggests that the Cambodian front, opened last spring after the fall of Prince Norodom Sihanouk, has caused Hanoi to raise the ante in troops committed to the Indochina war. Pentagon sources said. However, the increase was hardly enough to cause North Vietnam any serious manpower strain, they added.

U. S. Intelligence reports the North Vietnamese have gotten perhaps a month's head start in their annual late-year push to replenish their ranks for military operations during the season.

Infiltration totaled about 15,000 men in October and nearly 2,000 in the first several days of November, the sources said. Experts believe North Vietnamese infiltrators are carrying much more equipment with them.

This, it was said, apparently Cambodian base areas last spring and the severing of a major enemy supply route from the Gulf of Siam have prevented enemy reinforcements from drawing on stored supplies.

While U.S. officials claim intense American air strikes at key points in Laos have set back by some weeks the North Vietnamese major resupply effort this year, they say it is impossible to stem the movement of enemy troop reinforcements traveling in small groups.

Meanwhile, South Vietnamese troops have taken over offensive operations from the Americans in an area of 100 square miles north of Saigon, authoritative sources disclosed today.

The major shift of allied responsibilities virtually ends the American offensive role along the Saigon River corridor, a long-time North Vietnamese Viet Cong infiltration and supply route.

Four American artillery and patrol bases have been turned over to the South Vietnamese along a 50-mile stretch of the river, from the Cambodian border south to within 20 miles of Saigon.

South Vietnamese troops also are taking over Cu Chi, a giant base camp 10 miles northwest of Saigon that is the headquarters of the U.S. 25th Infantry Division. The division's headquarters and its 1st and 3rd Brigades are returning to Hawaii by Christmas.

Other American units at Cu Chi and Dau Tieng, an American brigade headquarters farther north, will be pulled out soon.

For the most part, sources said, the realignment leaves American forces in the western half of the 3rd Military Region defending their remaining bases and conducting such defensive operations as local reconnaissance, searching out enemy caches and protecting the current rice harvest.

The realignment is part of President Nixon's withdrawal program to reduce U.S. strength in Vietnam to 184,000 troops by next May 1.

The U.S. Command announced today that American forces in the country dropped another 6,000 men last week to 368,000. It was the lowest level since Dec. 10, 1966, when there were 367,400.

The North Vietnamese government, meanwhile, has granted permission for captured U.S. pilots to receive gift parcels for Christmas and New Year from their families. Hanoi's Vietnam News Agency said today.

VNA said parcels of 11 pounds, instead of the usual 4.6 pounds, will be allowed for the year-end gifts. It added that parcels are to be sent by mail via Moscow, "in accordance with the procedures already laid down," and parcels sent in any other manner will not be accepted.

Meanwhile, the Cambodian military command reported that the largest combined South Vietnamese-Cambodian task force of the war pushed in behind tanks on a Communist base camp 20 miles south of Phnom Penh. A spokesman said one South Vietnamese tank was reported destroyed by a mine, but the 7,000-man force had made no significant contact with the enemy.

U.S. Urges Israel to Review Policy

(Combined Wire Services) Israel, at the request of the United States, is reviewing its policy on the Middle East peace talks, political sources in Jerusalem said today.

According to the sources, Secretary of State William P. Rogers made it clear to Israeli Foreign Minister Abba S. Eban during meetings in Washington this weekend the United States would like to see Israel resume negotiations with Egypt and Jordan. They said Rogers did not exert pressure, but made the U.S. viewpoint clear.

Israel's objections to resuming the indirect talks under the auspices of U.N. negotiator Gunnar V. Jarring are based on the alleged installation of Soviet-made SAM-2 and SAM-3 missiles in the Suez Canal standstill zone after the ceasefire began Aug. 7.

Rogers urged the talks get under way again even if the missiles were not removed.

Prime Minister Golda Meir discussed the situation with her cabinet for 5½ hours Sunday. Cabinet Secretary Michael Aron said afterward "no new political decisions were reached nor were any new proposals made." He said the cabinet would continue deliberations and Mrs. Meir will deliver a major policy address to the Knesset (parliament) later this week.

Weekend speeches by Defense Minister Moshe Dayan and Deputy Premier Yigal Allon added to the speculation Israel may end the talks boycott. Both men said the talks were the only hope for peace in the Middle East.

In New York, the Big Four ambassadors from the United States, Britain, France and the Soviet Union were meeting today to discuss the Middle East situation in general, but with particular emphasis on possible resumption of the talks.

In Cairo, the Libyan chief of state, Col. Moammar el Khadafi, said in an interview with the newspaper Al Akhbar the conflict with Israel "can never be settled by peaceful means." He said "we've passed the point of no return insofar as a peaceful solution is concerned. We face a ferocious enemy who bases his policy and philosophy on enslavement, plunder and barbarism and who defends his illegal existence."

Khadafi was in Cairo for negotiations that have led to the creation of a North African union with Egypt and the Sudan. The decision to forge the single political unit was announced Sunday, but the statement gave no indication what political form the merger might take.

The late President Gamal Abdel Nasser failed in the first attempt, a federation with Syria and Yemen that was formed in 1958. It existed mostly on paper, and was broken up by Syria in September 1961. Egypt's official name remains the United Arab Republic, a remnant of that try at union.

Nasser's successor, Anwar Sadat, President Jaafar el Numairi of Sudan and Col. Muammar Kadafi, leader of Libya's military regime, announced plans for the new merger early today after a conference in Cairo.

No target date was given for putting the federation into operation.

"The Arab world is facing internal as well as external attempts to liquidate the revolutionary tide," it said, adding that the confederation was necessitated also by the death of Nasser, "whose mere presence in the Arab struggle with Israel was a sufficient symbol of unity for the Arab peoples."

Under the plan, called the Tripoli Charter in honor of a conference Nasser, Kadafi and Numairi held there this year, a tripartite command will first consolidate the political systems in the countries and coordinate their policies, the communique said. The command will set up three-sided boards to govern the confederation later, including a "supreme planning committee," a national security council for defense, an implementation committee to maintain national progress and subcommittees to handle political, economic, military and social questions.

Observers noted that the boards will include representatives from all three nations and their decisions presumably will have to be unanimous. Thus there apparently was no loss of sovereignty envisioned by the drafters of the charter, but this also increases the possibility of the disagreements that always wreck attempts at Arab unity.

The confederation will bring together some of the world's most lucrative oil fields in Libya, potentially rich wheat fields in Sudan and the Arab world's most powerful military force, in Egypt.

City Drug Roundup Continues, Three Are Charged With Heroin

By WALTER S. CLARK

KINGSTON A continuing drive by Kingston Police officials in a determined crackdown on the use and sale of heroin and other "hard" narcotics in the area resulted in the arrest Sunday night of two young women and a man and the reported seizure of heroin and instruments adapted for administering dangerous drugs.

Meanwhile, Ellenville State Police in cooperation with village authorities took a 26-year-old man in custody on a charge of criminal possession of heroin, subsequent investigation by detectives was Miss Gail D. Dro.

The arrests Sunday night by Kingston detectives followed the recent massive raid that climaxed a 10-month investigation of drug traffic in the area that brought about the arrests of 14 persons, many of whom were accused of sale and/or possession of heroin and other so-called hard drugs.

Acting on information obtained by police, detectives went to the Stuyvesant Hotel in uptown Kingston and reportedly confiscated a bottle cap that had evidence of burns allegedly caused by cooking drugs, an eye dropper and other implements and a quantity of heroin, according to investigators.

Taken into custody during subsequent investigation by detectives were Miss Gail D. Dro, 20, whose address was listed as Route 4, Box 242, Kingston; mated a 10-month investigation of drug traffic in the area that

During the Oct. 29 massive raids another arrest was made at the uptown hotel. Earl Johnson, 48, a tenant there, was taken into custody on charges of criminal possession and sale of dangerous drugs. Police said they seized a large quantity of the same narcotics that had not been cut.

Johnson's case is pending in court.

The Ellenville case involved the arrest by State Police of 26-year-old Paul M. Love of that village.

Troopers said Love was picked up for questioning about a hit-and-run accident that occurred two weeks ago involving his car. Senior BCI Investigator M. J. Mahoney and Troopers J. M. Lang and D. H. Dymond with the cooperation of Village Police Sergeant John Phillips allegedly found Love in possession of more than an ounce of heroin.

The defendant was arraigned before Village Police Justice Ronald W. Elias on a charge of criminal possession of dangerous drugs in the third degree, a felony.

Judge Elias remanded Love to the county jail in lieu of $5,000 bail pending a preliminary examination on Tuesday. The judge also fixed bail at $100 on the vehicle and traffic charge.

4-Lane Broadway Could Become Reality

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON The federal government's newest acronym, "TOPICS," could translate into a four-lane Broadway for the city of Kingston, according to Mayor Francis R. Koenig who is studying the program.

"TOPICS" literally stands for Traffic Operations Program to Increase Capacity and Safety. It means that the federal government will pay up to 50 per cent of the cost to alleviate traffic snarls in cities of more than 5,000 population. Kingston qualifies on both points.

The mayor's basic idea is to widen Broadway, where needed, so that four lanes of moving traffic could be accommodated at all times. He is quick to point out, however, that his inquiries to the federal government are in the preliminary stages at this point. "Cost, of course, would be the key factor," the mayor said. "This would be a major undertaking." Koenig knows the federal government would pick up 50 per cent of the cost but he wants to know if the state will pay any or all of the remainder.

"Broadway" is an accurate description for the city's main thoroughfare from Cedar Street to Albany Avenue but going in the opposite direction, toward downtown, it is anything but that. Broadway widens, including sidewalks, which average ten feet, range from 50 feet at the narrowest to 83 feet at the widest. Even the 83-foot width is not considered wide by today's standards, witnessed by the new four-lane Broadway downtown being built by the Kingston Urban Renewal

Agency which calls for four 20-foot lanes, a 15-foot divider and 12-foot sidewalks on each side, a total of almost 120 feet.

Broadway, from curb to curb, planned on a systematic basis according to the city engineer, by professionally qualified traffic and transportation engineers in conjunction with federal, state and local agencies concerned with traffic flow and safety. These projects must be in integral part of a long-range comprehensive plan of street Pine Grove Avenue 40 feet and highway improvements for O'Reilly Street.

The federal government de-fact with members of the Common Council concerning the TOPICS proposition, noting that "this is something we all have to be concerned with. All studies indicate more traffic in the future and a worsening situation. We have to look to every solution."

Along those lines, Koenig said today that he will issue an executive order prohibiting left turns into Abel Street coming off the Rondout Bridge during the work hour rush. The hours have yet to be defined, but it is expected that no left turns will be allowed between the hours of about 4:30 p. m. and 6 p. m.

Balance of Power

Conservatives Hold Key Seats in Assembly

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI)—The New York Conservative party, already bolstered by the election of James L. Buckley to the U.S. Senate, will also hold the balance of power in the state Assembly next year.

Republicans will keep control of the house by the same 79-71 margin they have enjoyed the past two years. But 10 key seats changed hands giving Conservatives the four votes needed to block any item if they side with the Democratic minority.

"Overall there was election of one additional true Conservative," Assembly Speaker Perry B. Duryea said. He added however, that he expected the philosophical makeup of the house to be "moderate Republican." "Some of the true Conservatives have moved closer to the middle since coming here," Duryea said.

Conservative State Chairman J. Daniel Mahoney said in New York City his party would exercise a stronger voice in the legislature, especially in the matters of reapportionment and taxation, the two major issues facing lawmakers when they return to Albany.

What Mahoney seemed to be saying was that if Governor Rockefeller comes up with a large tax increase proposal as expected, it won't be so easy to get it through.

Defection of four Republican

Conservative votes to the Democratic side can defeat Duryea on any major issue. This has been a problem in the past, especially since a dozen Republicans, in addition to the Conservatives, owe their election to the additional vote they picked up on the Conservative party line.

The "true Conservatives" in the Assembly are holdover Assemblymen Charles Jerabek of Bay Shore and Rosemary Gunning of Queens and freshman Edward M. Kinsella of Solvay. The fourth, Assemblyman Vito Battista of Brooklyn, doesn't carry the Conservative party label, but his position as the Cityzens Taxpayers party assemblyman is often the furthest to the right of any member of the larger house.

A coalition by Gunning, Jerabek, Battista and Kinsella then could block any measure also opposed by the Democratic minority. The Rockefeller tax hike, if one is indeed forthcoming, and the Republican reapportionment plan would almost certainly be opposed unanimously by the Democrats.

This means Duryea must either deal with the Conservatives, as he has successfully done in the past, and approve some of their proposals in return, or make deals with the Democrats, which isn't likely. The Conservatives will have more clout this year because they clearly have the votes to block a bill.

In the Senate, Majority Leader Earl W. Brydges doesn't have the same problem. He now holds a 32-25 edge, with 25 votes needed to pass any measure. This is a reduction of one Republican vote over the old legislature.

This means more than two defections could hurt the Senate majority leader, but there are no true Conservatives in the Senate. Also Brydges runs a tighter ship, if for no other reason than the Senate is smaller than the Assembly.

Dems, Liberals Agree on the Rx for Their Ills

NEW YORK (UPI) — Some New York State Democrats and Liberals believe their parties are sick and need a transfusion of new blood.

Howard Samuels, the unsuccessful candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, suggested Sunday Mayor John V. Lindsay of New York City could supply some of that new blood.

"I'd like to see John Lindsay become a Democrat because I think he represents the principles of the Democrats more than the principles of Nelson Rockefeller and James Buckley," Samuels said.

State Democratic Chairman John Burns, in a separate interview, said he would welcome Lindsay into the party. Burns also hinted that he might give up his own leadership position.

Now head of New York City's off-track betting corporation, Samuels said the state Democratic party needs a new direction.

"We've got to accept principles and not people," Samuels said.

Samuels said American political and social institutions needed reform "and the Democratic state committee ought to be a force in changing that system."

Rep. Allard K. Lowenstein, who lost his bid for reelection last week, said the state Democratic party was on a "downward spiral" and would continue in that direction unless its leadership "vacuum" is filled.

Lowenstein, a leading opponent of the Vietnam war, said the party needs people "who can inspire enthusiasm in the top positions."

Meanwhile, dissident Liberals called for the immediate resignation of party Chairman Donald S. Harrington, Vice Chairman Alex Rose and Executive Director Ben Davidson.

The Liberals for a New Politics, led by New York City Councilman Eldon Clingan, told a news conference that Liberal leadership made "unwise" endorsements, particularly in the U.S. Senate race.

"In this contest, the Liberal party split the progressive vote and thereby caused the election of the Conservative candidate, James Buckley, even though he had only a minority of the vote," a statement said.

Sen. Charles E. Goodell, the Republican who finished last in the race, had the Liberal cross-knuckle under to somebody trying to throw me out."

on the Liberal line had gone to the Democratic candidate, Richard L. Ottinger, it would have meant victory for Ottinger.

Samuels said he understood Sen. Charles E. Goodell, the Republican who finished last in the race, had the Liberal cross-knuckle under to somebody trying to throw me out."

"I would probably fight that," he said, "but I'm not so sure that I would stay in the office for the balance of my time anyway."

The former Binghamton mayor said the state Democratic chairman hasn't much of a power base to work on.

"The state chairman of a party which has not got a mayor of New York City and has not got a President really hasn't got much power," Burns said. "You know, I'm really sort of like U. Thant presiding over varying duchies and that sort of thing."

Rumored Mall Probe—Officials in Dark

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Several government officials have denied knowledge of a rumored grand jury probe of alleged corruption in construction of the $1 billion state mall complex here.

A spokesman for Gov. Rockefeller said Sunday the governor had "no knowledge" of a federal grand jury investigation which reportedly will open here Thursday.

The Albany Times-Union said it had learned that two prominent labor leaders, in particular, and other labor officials, businessmen and possibly government figures would testify in secret session.

General C. V. R. Schuyler, who as commissioner of the Office of General Services oversees the construction, told newsmen Saturday he didn't believe the state was involved in the probe. Rockefeller, through a spokesman, concurred.

U.S. Attorney James W. Sullivan in Syracuse, whose jurisdiction includes Albany, reportedly confirmed to the Times-Union that there would be a grand jury session. But he would not say if the mall was to be the topic.

Albany Mayor Erastus Corning III also denied knowledge of a probe and termed reports "speculative." The mall is on city property.

Informants, not identified by the newspaper, reportedly said the FBI had used virtually all available crime detection devices to uncover a pattern of alleged theft of materials, labor racketeering, organized gambling and loan sharking in connection with the project.

The mall was planned to cost $250 million, but difficulties have pushed its estimated cost to $1 billion and possibly higher.

The major contractor of the project was replaced several months ago when it demanded more money for problems encountered in building.

The building has been plagued by labor strikes, fires and recently sections of concrete that didn't cure properly and needed repouring.

Mom Recalls Son's View on Cross Kidnap

MONTREAL (AP) — The mother of two brothers sought for the kidnap-murder of Quebec Labor Minister Pierre Laporte says one of her sons thought the earlier kidnapping of British Trade Commissioner James Cross was a stupid move because the Canadian government wouldn't meet ransom demands to free "a man like that."

Mrs. Jean Paul Rose, mother of Paul, 27, and Jacques, 23, testified at a coroner's inquest for Laporte Saturday that she, her sons, and another suspect, Francois Simard, were on a trip to Texas when they heard of the Cross kidnapping Oct. 5. She said Paul made the remark.

She said the three men drove hard to get back to Montreal Oct. 8 and that they mentioned en route that the Cross kidnapping was "probably the work of Jacques, Pierre and Alain," otherwise unidentified in testimony.

About 20 state troopers, using a bloodhound, and more than 100 volunteers were searching for the youngsters when they were found. More volunteers and a detail of men from Plattsburgh Air Force Base had been expected to join in the search.

UCCC Talks at Impasse

By JEAN F. DOLAN

STONE RIDGE Charge and counter charge continue in the contract negotiations at Ulster County Community College between the county legislature committee and the Faculty Association.

Contract proposals under discussion last Friday reached an "impasse" according to county negotiators and "no progress" according to faculty spokesmen.

Brian White, chairman of the county legislature committee said that two-year contract proposals offered by his group subject to approval of the county Legislature at its regular meeting this Thursday did not meet with Faculty

Association Committee approval and that the faculty group walked out of the meeting with no commitment for a new meeting.

Louis Cesaratto, spokesman for the faculty negotiators said that it was his group who made the contract proposals and the meeting was adjourned.

A special meeting of the Faculty Association has been called for today. Cesaratto said it would be an informational meeting to bring members up to date on negotiations.

According to White, the proposals presented by his committee called for a 24 per cent salary increase for the first year and a seven per cent increase for the second year.

Additionally health insurance benefits would be 100 per cent coverage for the faculty member and 50 per cent for his family. The teaching load would be 29 hours per year.

Cesaratto contended that this was a continuation of "unilateral" bargaining on the part of the county legislature committee. He said that the offerings were regression citing Sullivan County Community College contracts of 20 per cent and 15 per cent increases over a two-year period. He said the workload of 29 hours a year would be an increase for some instructors, for example English composition teachers who presently carry a 24 hour workload.

According to White the faculty group wanted to accept the first year of the two year contract with the second year proposals to be negotiated at a later date. No new contract talks have been scheduled at this time. The college Board of Trustees had negotiated a contract with negotiations.

the Faculty Association during the summer. The community college budget was subsequently rejected by the County Legislature in August and was later adopted in a revised version without the salary increases subject to negotiations.

Probe Area Assault

WOODSTOCK

Area police authorities have begun a widespread search for a white Corvair automobile and its driver, who is wanted for questioning in connection with the alleged rape and assault of an 18-year-old Woodstock girl on Ohayo Mountain Road Saturday night, according to State Police investigator John F. Salter.

Authorities said the girl, who was not identified, was walking along the mountain road at about 8 p.m. Saturday when an unidentified man dragged her into the woods and assaulted her. Police added that the man apparently struck the teenager in the chin when she resisted his attack.

After the girl was released, said police, she went to a neighboring house and reported the incident. She was taken to Benedictine Hospital and treated for facial bruises and an injured leg before being released.

Authorities later spoke with persons living near the area and learned that the white auto had been seen leaving the scene of the attack, shortly after 8 p.m.

The incident took place near Schoonmaker Lane on the curving road that extends from Woodstock to Glenford. Police said the girl was walking home alone when the incident took place.

State Police from Lake Katrine and Town of Woodstock constables are directing the investigation.

Death Sentences Rule — Court Hears Renewed Plea

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court heard a renewed plea today for major changes in the way the death sentence is imposed in the United States.

Lawyers for two condemned slayers argued that juries should be stripped of their "absolute discretion" to decide which guilty men should die and which should get jail terms.

The three-hour hearing was a replay of arguments before the court over the last two years that led to no decision. In the meantime, the number of men and women on death row has grown to more than 550—most of whom have a life-or-death interest in the outcome.

The two prisoners whose appeals are before the court are Dennis C. McGautha of Los Angeles and James E. Crampton of Toledo, Ohio. Crampton was convicted of killing his wife.

McGautha's lawyer, Herman F. Selvin of Beverly Hills, Cal., argued California law provides no standards or guidelines for the jury to determine whether to impose the death penalty or a life sentence.

Crampton's lawyer John J. Callahan of Toledo, argues similarly regarding death penalty jurors in Ohio.

Should the court agree, all but a handful of the current death sentences could be upset and state legislatures required to lay down specific guidelines for future juries.

The prisoners spared by such a ruling presumably would be resentenced.

Callahan also argued that the trial should be split up, as it is in California, Texas, Georgia, Connecticut, Pennsylvania and New York. This would allow a defendant to plead for mercy without waving his Fifth Amendment guarantee against self-incrimination.

In a single-stage trial, the lawyer said, a defendant who pleads for mercy appears to jurors to be confessing his guilt and is apt to be convicted. He also leaves himself open to cross-examination. If the defendant does not plead for mercy, Callahan said, he risks receiving the death penalty.

Arguing against any changes were the states of California and Ohio and, importantly, the U.S. government.

Ronald M. George, a deputy attorney general of California, said juries are specifically cautioned not to be arbitrary and are told to consider all evidence surrounding the crime as well as the defendant's background and history.

Melvin L. Resnick, an assistant prosecuting attorney of Lucas County, Ohio, said the absence of standards does not mean juries are irrational. He suggested the court is really being asked to eliminate the death penalty itself.

The government's argument was made by Solicitor General Erwin N. Griswold. Since the justices are believed to be closely divided, the government's decision to counsel against change may be vital.

Griswold, a former dean of the Harvard law school, said the nation is committed to trial by jury and to the assumption that juries act fairly, rationally and intelligently.

As for adopting two-stage trials, Griswold said defendants are always under tactical pressures as to whether or not to take the stand.

The Red Ink Nixon Problem

WASHINGTON (AP) — The persistent and mounting red ink submitted to a Congress that not only remains firmly under Democratic control, but maintains in key positions most of the same men who confronted the Republican White House during the past two years.

The specter of big deficits plagues administration planners at every turn as they tackle more specific problems of the coming year, including:

—The draft, which expires June 30, Nixon is committed in principle to moving toward an all-volunteer army, which would be costly in pay and other incentives.

—Reform of the welfare system, unless Congress in the upcoming lame duck session succeeds in reconciling sharply differing versions. Main objection to the administration plan has been its cost. Meanwhile welfare rolls continue to soar above predictions.

—Possible extension of Federal aid to college students. Again, cost is the big headache.

—Continuation or revamping of the antipoverty program.

—Mounting sentiment for a national health insurance program, with heavy government financial participation.

What ever decisions the administration makes must be submitted to a Congress that not only remains firmly under Democratic control, but maintains in key positions most of the same men who confronted the Republican White House during the past two years.

Campus Problems Remain

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The executive director of the President's Commission on Campus Unrest says the underlying problems that produced campus violence last spring still are there, and will probably trigger future disorders.

Matthew Byrne said "Many, many law enforcement agencies and many, many students ... are going to pay heed to the recommendations of the commission," which called for cease-fire on campus and advised lawmen not to carry weapons into such disorders.

"I'm not, unfortunately, able to say that in my opinion there won't be any further problems on campuses, because I'm sure there probably will be," Byrne said in a UPI Washington Window interview.

"I do think that the underlying problems that were present on many of the campuses of this country last spring are still there. Something could trigger that and it could turn into disorders, disorders and, unfortunately, maybe also violence," he added.

Byrne said there are some individuals in the cities and on the campuses turning to terrorist tactics; but the problems on the campus are varied, he said, and "the unrest is going to continue even if the Indochina War comes to an end, because there are other problems within our society that the college community is going to be concerned with after the Indochina War is over."

One of the underlying causes of unrest, he said, is the country's emerging youth culture which has contributed to a crisis of understanding. He added:

"For instance, at Kent State, when we interviewed the townspeople at Kent State, over 78 per cent of the townspeople thought more students should have been shot and that would have ended the problem of campus unrest.

"Shoot people because they look differently, they talk differently maybe react differently."

Byrne said some college administrators do seem to be taking "a more realistic stand" toward campus disruptions, because they now realize tragedy can come to them just as well as to others.

Hate is not the opposite of love —apathy is.

Of course you don't "hate" anybody. But if you turn your back on people and problems it's really the same thing. Love is an active verb. Love means getting involved. Love means giving something of yourself. "Love your neighbor" is a lot easier said than done. But there's no better time to start trying than right now.

What a Child Should Know

Eighteen years ago, 8-year-old twin girls were almost coaxed into a stranger's car in Pittsburgh. They were the daughters of Police Sergeant Adam F. Ferragonio. Frightened by the near miss, Ferragonio mounted a campaign against child molesters. A pamphlet he has written is full of practical advice for parents and tells what every child should know to avoid the molester:

Ignore and run away from any stranger who talks to you.

If approached by a man in a car, run in the opposite direction from which the car is moving. Remember the license number. Write it down in the mud with a stick, or on the sidewalk with a stone.

If you cannot avoid the stranger, take a good look at him and notice anything unusual about him—scars on the face or hands, rings, color and type of clothing.

Estimate age, weight and height by comparing strangers with people you know.

Never take money, candy or treats from any stranger or let him touch you.

Never take rides from persons whom you do not know.

Never play alone in alleys, or deserted buildings. Keep together.

Never go with strangers when they ask directions.

Better take a pal along when you go to playgrounds, movies, stores.

Never wait or play around toilets. Always leave immediately.

Ferragonio urges families to establish Block-Parents, where a child in trouble may stop for help. Baby-sitters should be accompanied back and forth to their jobs. Teenagers should introduce their dates to their parents, say where they are going, and avoid blind-dates and pickups.

Finally, the veteran officers warns, a molester will kill because he has a reputation to protect, so report to the police any stranger, friend or relative who molests children, or even hangs around them. They are dangerous.

America's Illiterates

In the greater Washington area, 40,000 adults would have to be classified as illiterates, according to well calculated estimates. Projected over the whole population, that would mean more than eight million are so handicapped, a figure that must be vastly exaggerated. Nonetheless, the real figure is higher than is good for this enlightened nation.

For this reason, anything that will break through the illiteracy barrier is good for the country. A method that is credited with teaching 60 million people in 312 languages in more than 100 countries is being popularized in Washington. It is called the Laubach method.

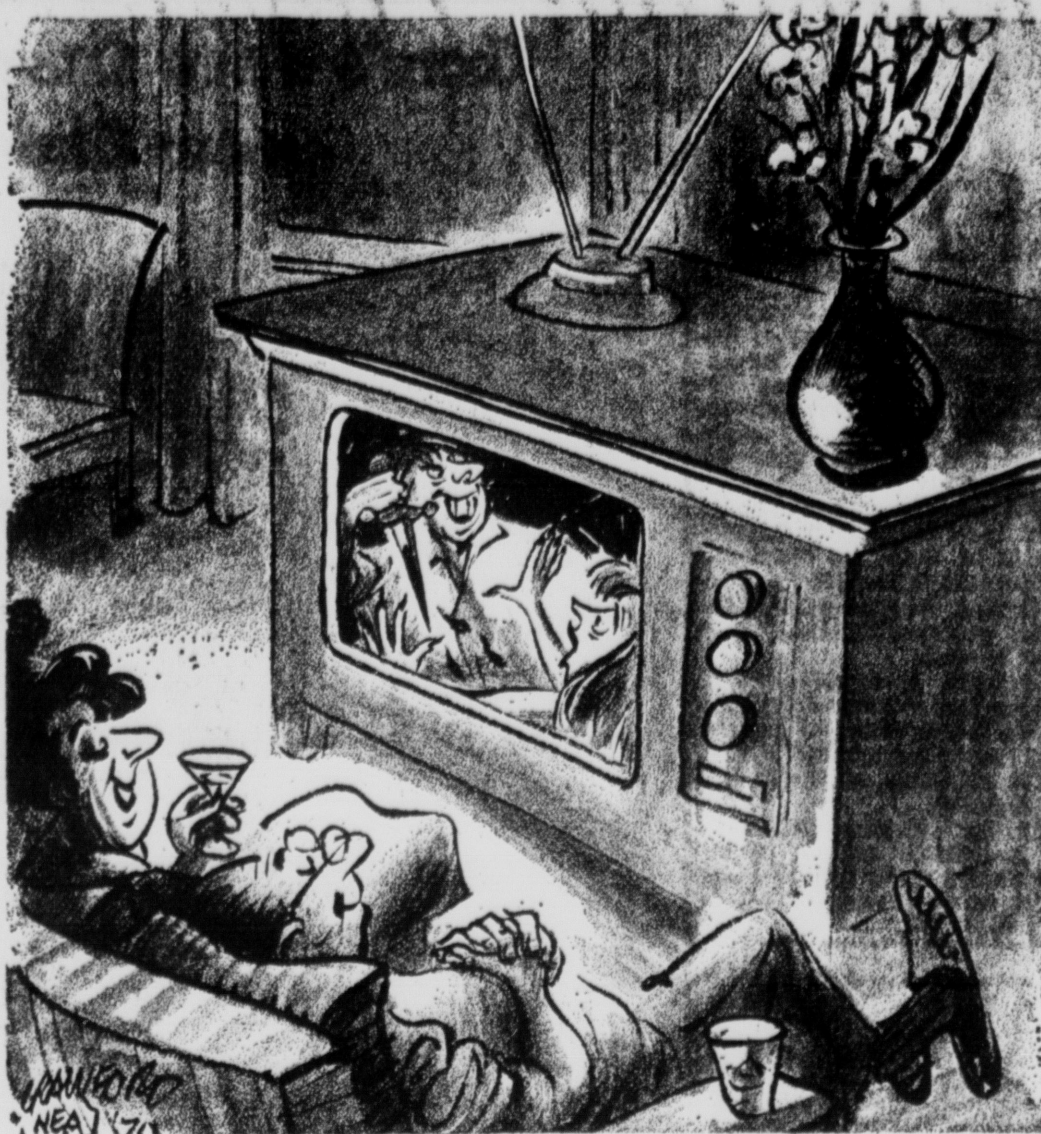

Founder is Frank C. Laubach, a Congregational missionary, who died last June. He worked out a series of charts depicting pictures and corresponding sounds with which he taught Moro tribesmen in the Philippines how to read and write their spoken language. By utilizing the technique of each-one-teach-one, 20,000 Moros learned to read their own language in a brief time. From that beginning came Laubach Literacy, Inc., a non-profit educational organization. The mainstay is the volunteer tutor trained in Laubach literacy workshops on a one-to-one basis with an adult.

Illiterate Americans are taught how to read and write and foreign-born are taught conversational English. There is no charge to students for instruction, which is carried on by trained volunteer tutors through literacy councils. Three such councils operate in the Washington area.

BERRY'S WORLD

"Who can name and locate the countries where some rodents have taken refuge, recently?"

"It's Good to Be Back to Normal After the Elections!"

David Lawrence Says Economic Recovery a Must For GOP to Win in 1972

WASHINGTON — Now that the facts about what happened in the 1970 elections in different states are available, it is becoming increasingly evident that the custom of many years in American politics has just been followed again—the incumbent party has been blamed for an economic slowdown affecting various sections of the country.

The Republican party lost a number of governorships and some seats in the House of Representatives, though it cut losses in the latter below the usual mid-term defeats for the party in power. Surprisingly, the Republicans gained seats in the Senate.

On the whole, however, the election registered a protest primarily against economic conditions. This meant that, unless the people cast within the next two years, the lifted out of their present discontent, the voters will elect a Democratic president in 1972.

As returns on Tuesday night showed the Democrats winning an unusual victory in South Dakota, one official of the long-time Republican stronghold remarked: "My God, they would elect a dog or anything rather than go with an incumbent this year!" The Democratic Party made the biggest sweep in the state since 1932, when the campaign of Franklin D. Roosevelt led a raid on the statehouse.

Farm prices are low, and this not only was a factor in South Dakota but cost the Republicans votes in other areas of the west where the party has been traditionally dominant.

Large majorities for the Democrats in the regions where blue-collar workers have a big vote are given lots of credit for Democratic gains of governorships in certain key industrial states and for taking over a few legislatures. New York State was an exception but, generally speaking, the labor vote helped to swing the election to the Democrats. At least 17 of the 29 gubernatorial candidates endorsed by labor organizations were elected.

Unquestionably, the labor unions played an influential role throughout the country in aiding Democratic candidates for the Senate and also in bringing to the House of Representatives more Democratic members. The work of unions was made easier by the fact that there have been layoffs in many industries.

While other factors played a part in influencing the judgment of voters, the central issue turned out to be unsettled economic conditions. The nation is still experiencing a rising cost of living, and many a business is having difficulty in avoiding an increase in its prices as higher and higher wages are demanded by the labor unions.

The policies of the administration have been cautious. There has been a reluctance to take any measures of a far-reaching nature that could affect the political situation. For a while the war issue was predominant in many places. But as businesses suffered lower and lower profits and unemployment rose, fear of a big recession spread among the voters across the country.

The impact of the economic situation is not new in American politics. Whenever substantial unemployment prevails, the incumbent party almost always loses an election. People say: "It's time for a change."

In this instance, there was no opportunity to make a change in the presidency, but the Democratic party lined up a large number of votes and took over many of the statehouses and legislatures. While the President feels he has a working majority in Congress, the election results seem to indicate that the discontented voters expect miracles to happen in the next two years. Unless a return to the relatively prosperous conditions that have prevailed in the past decade has been accomplished by 1972, it will not make much difference to the voters who the candidates are.

But the real question is: "Which party is going to make times better?" That's the major influence in most elections, and presidents and governors who are in office in days of prosperity do not have to worry about reelection. The next two years plainly will have to be a period of economic recovery if the Republicans are to win in 1972.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

These are the news flashes two years from today:

WASHINGTON, D.C. — A White House spokesman announced that Spiro Agnew has been arrested for writing words on a rest-room wall. The words, photographed by the Washington Police Department, appear to be: "Muskie and Kennedy are rats." The Attorney General's office announced that the charges are politically motivated, because it can be proven that the Vice President cannot write.

POCANTICO HILLS, N.Y. — Nelson Rockefeller announced that he will not try for the Presidency again in 1976. He also stated that the rumor of his impending divorce to marry Mrs. John Mitchell for political sockeroo is pure bullroo. Among those who also stated that they will not seek the Presidency again are Eldridge Cleaver, Professor Leary, Frank Costello and L. Mendel Rivers. Although the '72 election is still a week off, George Wallace muttered: "Betchy—I'm a-runin'."

HOUSTON, TEXAS — NASA announced today that Apollo 19, now a year and a half on its way to the planet Pluto made a wrong turn when an auxiliary rocket misfired, and is now taking dead aim on a small town called Wet Moccasin, Oklahoma. Plans are afoot to remain afoot.

NEW YORK, N.Y. — Since Curt Flood won his case against the slave owners of both baseball leagues, the players have pooled their resources and bought the leagues. As most sports fans will recall, Satchel Paige pitched and won the World Series this year for Bayonne against Sausalito.

PARIS, FRANCE — Couturiers have announced that, since the abandonment of the mini blouses and the elimination of skirts for street wear parties and bra are the "in" thing for next year. They may be adorned with sequins and tassels.

ATHENS, GREECE — In a surprise move, Aristotle Onassis and Stavros Niarchos combined yesterday to buy Japan. Onassis gave his wife the pearl fisheries as an anniversary present.

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The new Secretary of Commerce, Red Skelton, defended the lack of bread to one dollar a loaf as in keeping with the Administration's policy of "holding the line."

BERNE, SWITZERLAND — American efforts to negotiate with Cuba for the return of George Romney bogged down when the U.S. forgot to ask for him.

SAIGON — Four star General William Calley announced that Nixon's plan to recall all remaining 175,000 American troops has reached an impasse, because all of them have been found to be married to Vietnamese girls, even though the 175,000 men admit they have American wives somewhere. A few were carried abroad Army transport planes kicking, biting and crying.

NEW YORK — Prudential Insurance Company in concert with New York Life and Metropolitan Life, has agreed to purchase the United States if President Nixon can make one thing clear—the price.

SAN FRANCISCO — The Free-Pot-for-elementary students picnic was a rousing success. Some of the kids were higher than their balloons.

PEKING, CHINA — A crowd of twelve million Chinese gathered around the grave of Mao Tse-tung to listen to his sepulchral voice admonish them: "From the vastness of outer space, I warn you to beware of the American paper tiger and his freakin' missiles...freakin' missiles...missiles...miss..."

NEW YORK — Johnny Carson, David Frost and Merv Griffin have signed an agreement to boycott Richard Nixon's new five-night-a-week couch show. Their objection is not to the show itself, rather the fact that he expropriated the three networks.

BERLIN, GERMANY — The Wall, down almost a year, is about to be rebuilt. This time the West Germans are putting it up.

JERUSALEM — Peace talks between the Israelis and Arabs were temporarily halted when the Arab delegation was confined to quarters due to food poisoning. Two days ago, as a peace offering, Premier Golda Meir sent a large pot of chicken soup.

CHICAGO, ILLINOIS — Organized Crime is liquidating its assets and many gangsters are booking passage because the Panthers have taken over the rackets.

MONTGOMERY, ALABAMA — The Montgomery Advertiser announced this morning, in a copyright article, that all civil rights aims have been achieved since the President appointed four Southerners to the Supreme Court, and four Black porters to scrub the floors.

That's all the news two years ahead of time, kiddies. Keep them cards coming in Huggy Bunny...

Jack Anderson Says Voters Reacted Against Scandal-Tainted Candidates

WASHINGTON—Those men in high office who have been caught cheating the public finally heard from the voters last Tuesday. Here's a state-by-state report:

California—This column reported last March that Senator George Murphy, R., had a secret deal with Technicolor, Inc., which was paying him $20,000 a year, picking up half the rent on his $520-a-month Washington apartment, and furnishing him with credit cards. We also noted that he had often been tardy paying his taxes on this extra income. In 1968 the Internal Revenue Service was forced to file a $3,218.29 tax lien against him.

These charges became a key issue in his reelection campaign. The California electorate responded overwhelmingly by voting him out of office.

Connecticut—The late Drew Pearson and I spelled out in a series of columns beginning in January 1966, how Senator Tom Dodd, D., had violated half-a-dozen federal laws. He filed a $5 million 14-count libel suit against us. Every time we tried to take his deposition under oath on the law violations, however, he would drop some of the charges. Eventually, he dismantled his own law suit, piece by piece, until he had withdrawn all 14 counts. The Senate, meanwhile, investigated one of the lesser charges (that he had used campaign contributions to pay his personal bills) and censured him. The Internal Revenue Service spent a year unraveling his tangled finances and recommended criminal prosecution for income tax evasion. The Senate also submitted the other alleged law violations to the Justice Department for action.

Dodd was so discredited that he withdrew as a candidate after the polls showed he would lose the nomination. Yet astonishingly he jumped back in the race despite his low standing in the polls, as an independent candidate, thus dividing the Democratic vote. This played into the hands of the Republicans who, in Washington, had the power to indict him. Significantly, the Justice Department dropped the criminal case against Dodd. Later during the campaign, he was caught slipping into the White House to visit President Nixon's political operator, Murray Chotiner.

Apparently Dodd has escaped criminal prosecution, but he received the verdict of his constituents on November 3rd. The people of Connecticut, who gave him 64 per cent of their votes six years ago, gave him only 24 per cent this year. He ran a poor third in the three-way Senate race.

Indiana—This column reported last December that Senator Vance Hartke, D., had collected large sums from Spiegel, Inc., the Chicago mail-order house, also that he had received free advertising during the 1964 campaign from Indianapolis radio station WIFE. Again on October 30 we quoted from a secret Justice Department statement that was used as the basis for a bribery indictment against ex-Senator Daniel Brewster, D-Md. The secret statement implicated Hartke in the same scandal.

The charges were used against him during his reelection campaign this year and contributed to the hairline result. In contrast Hartke won his seat six years ago by a comfortable 54 per cent.

Maryland—Life Magazine published a detailed expose last August charging at Senator Joseph Tydings, D., had used his senatorial prestige to promote his own financial interest. The magazine accused him of attempting improperly to influence government agencies in behalf of a company in which he had a financial interest.

The allegations contributed to his defeat at the same time that his ticket mate, Governor Marvin Mandel, won reelection by a landslide.

Nebraska—In a series of columns we told how Senator Roman Hruska had become the Senate spokesman for the drug, insurance, automobile, cattle and other special interests. He fought in the Senate and later intervened at the White House to kill a measure opposed by the Kemper Insurance group.

He also tried to help insiders take over a Wisconsin insurance firm whose parent company, Sentry Insurance, also retained his former firm. Belatedly he removed his name from the law firm listing in legal directories just in time for his reelection campaign.

We also reported that Hruska preached against pornography at the same time he profited from it through a movie chain which featured salacious films.

The columns were used as campaign ammunition against Hruska who had been elected by a 61 per cent majority six years ago and was considered a shoo-in this year. However, the New York Times reported the day after the election: "Nebraska's senior senator, Roman Hruska, received the fright of his political life in yesterday's general election" before winning a narrow victory. The Times attributed his close call to "some farm policy unhappiness in the state and Mr. Hruska's alleged association with special interests."

Nevada — This column charged on October 14 that Lt. Gov. Ed Fike, the Republican law-and-order candidate for governor, had violated the state's conflict of interest laws in a land deal, also that casinos had given space to ticket booths in violation of the Federal Corrupt Practices Act for a Spiro Agnew political rally in behalf of Senatorial candidate William Raggio. Governor Paul Laxalt, in behalf of his GOP colleagues, struck back at the column, I flew out to Nevada with the documentary evidence to debate the governor on state-wide television.

The Las Vegas Sun, a Republican newspaper, reported after the debate: "...An informal poll taken among viewers immediately following the debate showed the public favoring Anderson's arguments over Laxalt's by an eight to one margin. The poll was augmented by approximately 60 calls to the Sun switchboard expressing a similar eight to one margin... Anderson was armed with a heavy sheaf of documents apparently bearing undeniable evidence that Fike had violated the state's conflict of interest laws in purchase of more than 1,000 acres of choice land along the lower Colorado in extreme southern Nevada..."

Fike, who had been an overwhelming favorite, lost to Democratic candidate Mike O'Callaghan. Raggio was also defeated by a large majority.

New Jersey — We carried a story on October 24 about Senatorial candidate H.R. Gross, R., spelling out his financial difficulties. We reported that the gregarious Gross charged his high living to failing companies that he controlled; that while his firms were on the brink of bankruptcy, he stuck them for $49.50 tickets to the Moscow Circus at Madison Square Garden, florist bouquets for his wife, and luxurious refurbishing for his home.

Although these allegations never became a major issue, political analysts say they contributed to Gross's poor showing against Senator Harrison Williams.

'Blank Check' to Israel U.S. Digs War Pit in Mideast

By RAY CROMLEY

NEA Washington Correspondent WASHINGTON (NEA)—The steps taken by the Nixon administration in the Middle East illustrate how easily the United States could get involved in another "Vietnam."

Today, of course, this country is not militarily involved in the Israeli-Arab conflict. But the Nixon administration, in its highly laudable attempts at being honest broker, has taken actions which could get this country caught up in the Mediterranean as deeply as we are in Southeast Asia, with no one intending this result.

How could this be? Secretary of State William Rogers a few months back presented a quite excellent plan for a cease-fire and negotiated settlement between the Israeli and the Egyptians working through United Nations mediators. This first step, of course, was not dangerous. It did not involve us except as middlemen.

Egypt readily accepted. But Israel was hesitant.

Then the United States began to make mistakes, all with the highest objectives. It pressured Israel to agree to the cease-fire and talks. Israel still resisted. The United States pressed harder.

It was then the Nixon administration made a most serious blunder. In essence, this government promised Israel there would be no violation of the cease-fire, that the United States would have spy planes over the scene and would be able to pick up the slightest violation. We promised Israel that if an imbalance resulted, the United States would provide whatever arms were necessary to rectify this imbalance and would make certain that any serious violations by the Soviet Union and Egypt would be rectified.

We told Israel, of course, that we would not countenance violations on their side either.

When we gave our word that we would not permit violations and that we would make for any loss Israel suffered from agreeing, we committed ourselves to more than mediation.

Nixon's advisers, as specialists in history, knew the Soviet Union has consistently violated cease-fires, having found that this practice results to their advantage in three cases out of four. Nevertheless, the Nixon men took this risk.

What has come out in the press thus far is not the whole story. It can be said with assurance that we were quite emphatic in private in our dealings with the Israeli.

It may be that our negotiators exceeded their authority in the implied promises they made in their talks with the Israeli. However it all happened, the Israeli government is now in a position to call upon the faith and honor of the United States.

For Israel now in essence has an American moral IOU. The Israeli government can say: We trusted you. We reluctantly entered this cease-fire at your insistence and against our better judgment. We came in only because you made these pledges—after you promised in effect that you would guarantee our security. So you are committed on your honor to see that we do not lose thereby.

Whatever the intentions of the Nixon administration, and so far as this reporter can determine, this government is firmly committed to the premise that we want to be friends with both sides in this nasty war, the result nevertheless, is that the United States has now for all intents and purposes overtaken itself militarily to the Israeli. That this was unintentional makes it no less distressing.

At this moment Nixon's men are busily engaged in attempting to get themselves part way out of this hole. They're making every attempt in private talks to work out some sort of agreement on what to do about the cease-fire violations. That is, Nixon's representatives are exploring with the Egyptians whether they will make at least token withdrawals to meet some of Israel's objections. (U.S. strategists, however, are not at all certain the new Egyptian government is strong enough politically at home and in the Arab world to make even token withdrawals, even if it wants to.)

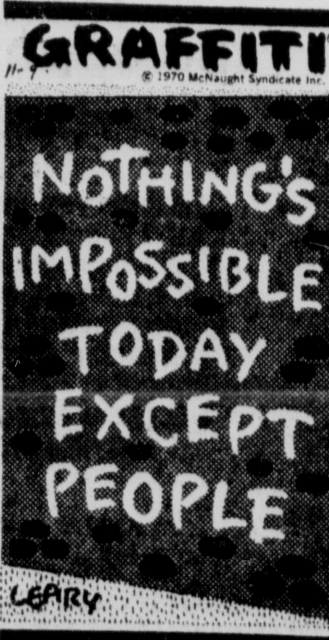

But Nixon's men are also putting all the pressure they can on Israel to disregard the Soviet-Egyptian violations and go on with the talks.

In doing this, the administration men are, by implication, promising Israel more military backing.

There are signs that Israel, despite its protests, will comply.

There is no doubt that the Israeli, in return, will consider us more deeply in their debt—morally—in case the talks fail or more violations occur.

Thereby the potential pressure for our greater military involvement is being further strengthened even by our attempts to extricate ourselves.

The Separatists' Plea

'We Are French Peasants In Land of English Lords'

By TOM TIEDE
MONTREAL — (NEA) — Rene Levesque is a slight, short, bald, gaunt man who often puts his hand against his aching back. He doesn't look like he could lead anybody out of a burning building. But until near martial law was declared here last month, he was rapidly leading Quebec Province out of Canada.

Levesque, 47, is the founder and definite head of the Parti Quebecois (PQ), which has as its goal the secession of one-fourth of Canada's 22 million people.

For the past year, it appeared as if this goal, centuries old in Quebec, was nearing reality. Starting with practically nothing, except perhaps sentiment, Levesque's party promised to lead and the class citizenship for French Canadians. And the PQ gathered 23 per cent of the vote in last spring's elections. More recently, a provincial poll indicated this public support had risen by 10 full points.

Then the bubble broke. Separatist terrorists put the nation into a frenzy with kidnap and murder. And, although the revolutionaries have nothing to do with the Parti Quebecois, that fact has been fogged in the national distress.

Thus, circumstances have at least slowed Levesque's moderate movement to separation. "Some will lump us with the nuts," he says. "So people fear separatists right now. If an election were held tomorrow, my party would be humiliated."

For French Canada, the situation is a sorry one. For even those who do not believe in secession here believe Rene Levesque's party is a force for good.

The federal minister of labor, Bryce Mackasey, put it thus: "I would sacrifice my life to see the existence of that party (PQ) preserved. Although it wants to bring an end to Canada, that's their privilege. It is what democracy is all about."

Beyond politics, Levesque's PQ has done what a century of confederation could not do — convince the nation of the frustration in Quebec. "Here we are," says one French speaker, "beggars in our own land. I am out of work. I live in an animal pen. My children wash with cold water. My wife is old before her time. Why? Because we are French peasants in a land of English lords."

The allegory is dramatic, but it smacks of the truth. Diane Cohen, a Montreal economist, says that to be French in Canada is to be miserable. Her reasons: French Canadians make up one-fourth of the dominion labor force, but 41 per cent of its unemployed; on the average, English-speaking workers earn 40 per cent more than French-speaking ones; nearly all unemployed people in Quebec are French; this year, 3,000 new jobs have been created for 75,000 new Quebec workers.

But over all figures are hard and cool. Take a look at an average Quebec ghetto instead. According to the province's Corporation of Social Workers, the welfare rolls there are growing 20 times faster than the population, infant mortality is twice the rate of English middle class and the French teen-agers are seven times more prone to arrest than English middle-class youths. In one survey of 331 first graders last autumn, 104 were found undernourished and 97 were retarded in weight and height. As one surveyor concluded: "Perhaps it would be better not to be born."

This then, says Rene Levesque, is the reason for such a Canadian tragedy. He Parti Quebecois. Sitting at the end of a long table, his face muscles slightly twitching, he cannot hold his anger when discussing free Quebec. In his opinion, the separation terrorists are "an accidental setback of recent days, he still group of irresponsible s.o.b.s."

Yet separation itself, he adds, should not be condemned: "Most Quebecers are fed up with things like Expos (held in 1968) and Olympic Games (held in 1972) while our ghettos spread, while we have to fight for the right to use our language."

He pauses. "May I be blunt? if you cannot stand the touch What would it be like in the of one another?"

United States if one state was 80 per cent Negro? They would want to do things their own way, right? And if they weren't allowed to, then they would want to break away, just as we do."

He suggests such could lead to a second U.S. civil war. Levesque's idea is to avoid such a Canadian tragedy. He Parti Quebecois. Sitting at the end of a long table, his face muscles slightly twitching, he cannot hold his anger when discussing free Quebec. In his opinion, the separation terrorists are "an accidental setback of recent days, he still group of irresponsible s.o.b.s."

At present, I spend $1.50 per week to keep my seven children in fluoride pills. This adds up to quite a bit of change at the end of a year and on a mailman's salary. It isn't easy. The good these pills will do for my children in the future will much more than offset this cost, besides saving them a considerable amount of pain.

I see children all the time with ugly holes in their teeth because parents can't afford to take them to the dentist. Is there no one to care about these children and provide them and future children with this fluoride protection — so beneficial and inexpensive to provide?

The Common Council better see to it that there is an open hearing and that those who are well informed on this subject have an opportunity to speak. Thus the slogan bearers can tune in and change their tune.

I wish I could match their ad with one of my own, but since I can't, I hope this letter will show "them" that we fluoride fors are here.

Economic, Social Problems
Editor, The Freeman

The fundamental causes in the rise of crime and violence rest in economic and social problems that can only be solved by a multifaceted fight for social justice and economic influence on 1972 and the remainder of the seventies. Tuesday's elections revealed changes in voting patterns were registered in last Tuesday's among key groups in the population. In addition, a new way have been set in motion that of gauging public opinion, called The Public Opinion Referendum, indicates possible trouble ahead for President Nixon on certain major issues.

The referendum was conducted in the days immediately prior to the elections by the Gallup Poll in cooperation with National Educational Television.

In its report of the results of the final pre-election survey, the Gallup Poll showed the Democrats with 53 per cent of all votes cast for candidates for the House of Representatives, the GOP with 47 per cent. On the basis of incomplete election returns, the estimated division is 52 per cent to 48 per cent, a deviation of only about one percentage point from the final Gallup figures.

The vote of women made the difference between the Democrats' winning and losing seats, with women more Democratic in their voting than men. Support among women for an early withdrawal from Vietnam accounts for some of this difference.

Catholic Trend to Republicans
Catholics gave greater support to Republican candidates last Tuesday than they have in other recent elections. Their vote may presage a shift in the loyalties of Catholic groups who have always been strongly Democratic. The issue of "law and order" is particularly important to this group.

Persons in white-collar jobs — sales people, clerical workers and those in similar occupations — have moved toward the GOP. In the congressional elections in 1966 — the last non-presidential year — their vote was fairly evenly divided between the two parties.

Blue-collar workers, on the other hand, moved in the opposite direction. This year they voted even more strongly for Democratic candidates than in previous elections.

Early Withdrawal From Vietnam Favored

The referendum, conducted in four "indicator counties" across the nation, showed a majority of people in selected districts in each county favoring the withdrawal of all U.S. troops from Vietnam by the end of next year, a proposal which runs counter to the Nixon Administration's current policy.

A majority were also found to favor wage-price controls, which some economists have proposed as a way to deal with the inflationary spiral. Their views again run counter to the administration's current policy, which calls for wage-price guidelines but not controls.

Politically Representative
In the referendum, four counties were selected — one in each of the four major regions of the nation — on the basis of their past voting record and present-day representativeness. Election districts were then selected within these counties.

Ballots with 10 key voter issues were distributed to all the households in the districts selected and picked up the next day. This procedure was carried out in the days immediately prior to the election. More than 60 per cent of all ballots distributed in these selected districts were returned — considerably higher participation than in last Tuesday's elections. Districts were selected in the following counties: New London, Conn.; Shelby (Memphis), Tenn.; Montgomery, Ill.; and San Luis Obispo, Calif.

Here is the vote in these four areas in combination:

1. Withdraw from Vietnam by end of 1971?	Should ..... 61%
Should not ..... 39%
2. Lower Voting Age to 18?	Should ..... 53%
Should not ..... 47%
3. Make Use of Marijuana Legal?	Should ..... 14%
Should not ..... 86%
4. Speed Up Racial Integration?	Should ..... 38%
Should not ..... 62%
5. Congress Vote More Money to Help Poor in Cities?	Should ..... 61%
Should not ..... 39%
6. Bus Children to Achieve Better Racial Balance?	Should ..... 22%
Should not ..... 78%
7. Congress Vote More Money to Help Police Deal With Crime?	Should ..... 91%
Should not ..... 9%
8. Cars to Be Equipped With Anti-Pollution Device?	Should ..... 79%
Should not ..... 21%
9. Government to Set Wage-Price Controls?	Should ..... 65%
Should not ..... 35%
10. Deny Federal Aid to Colleges That Do Not Expel Students Involved in Campus Riots?	Should ..... 79%
Should not ..... 21%

Editor, The Freeman

My family and I have been happy and proud to be residents and members of Kingston for the past year — up until recently when a few narrow-minded people, calling themselves "The Citizens Against Fluoridation" placed an ad in your paper and ruined my illusion that the people in this town were open-minded, free thinkers. Up until now, I've been very impressed by Harry Thayer and such as he, who voice their opinions so openly and sincerely. But I'm afraid I can't admire these misinformed slogan toters.

At present, I spend $1.50 per week to keep my seven children in fluoride pills. This adds up to quite a bit of change at the end of a year and on a mailman's salary. It isn't easy. The fundamental causes in the rise of crime and violence rest in economic and social problems that can only be solved by a multifaceted fight for social justice and economic and cultural opportunities.

In this program where we deal with the war on poverty, the problems of youth and narcotic addiction, there are many suggestions which would reduce the tension at the root of the problem. We reject the concept that all we need is the billy club to scare the "potential criminal" into submission. There are no panaceas or quick solutions.

While we face the problem of public safety, we must eliminate poverty, while we must strengthen the police, we must protect the individual liberties of all citizens.

Peace Symbol

Editor, The Freeman:
This letter is in reply to the ad by the American Legion regarding the origin of the Peace symbol. The origin of the symbol may be of interest to some scholars but, as most high schoolers know, is not related to its current meaning. Words commonly change their meaning from a bad connotation to a good connotation or vice versa: a process called melioration or pejoration, respectively. For example, the word "tough" has come recently to mean "beautiful."

The meaning of a word or symbol is determined only by its usage. A Peace symbol means "peace," plain and simple. I say this not as a dig at the American Legion, nor as a boost for the peacebiks, but rather in the effort to head off any further misunderstanding. We have sufficient misunderstanding now to keep us busy for some time to come if we are to become one nation again.

Deadly Poison
Editor, The Freeman:

Will the American people allow their drinking water to be polluted, and will they be naive enough to believe this is done strictly for the benefit of our children's teeth. If so, I come to think of what might come next. Will it be goof balls to try to overcome the lethargic effects of sodium fluoride? If fluoridationists succeed in having our water supply poisoned, who will try to stop the next bright group of scientists from adding birth control pills to our drinking water, to solve the so called population explosion?

It is something to think about. Something for the public to be concerned about. Sodium fluoride has not been proved beneficial to children's teeth.

Polluted Swamp

Editor, The Freeman:
On the Sawkill Road just north of Route 209, in the Town of Kingston, on the right hand side of the road there used to be a haven swamp-pond where occasionally one glimpsed wild ducks or geese. This swamp is adjacent to the creek that flows toward the Thruway and under it. In fact it is so close by that in times of high water the swamp water flows into the creek.

Presently this swamp is being filled with debris and trash, which includes old furniture, wood, bricks, steel from houses that have been demolished in Kingston, as well as metal barrels, an old junk car, rags, left-overs from the demolished houses, etc. Besides being unsightly and ugly, it is without a doubt destroying and polluting whatever marine life lives in this swamp. In case of high water, the polluted swamp will run into the creek infecting that also. From time to time large machinery is employed to crush down the trash and then dirt is spread over it.

Could this by any chance be in violation of health laws? I am very much alarmed that this should be allowed.

Bill Proposed For State Office Of Ombudsman

NEW YORK (UPI)—Two New York City Democratic state legislators will introduce a bill providing for the creation of a state office of ombudsman next year, a private educational organization announced Sunday.

The National Educational Ombudsmen Association said the legislators, Brooklyn Sen. Jeremiah B. Bloom and Queens Assemblyman Herbert A. Posner, believe the office will reduce bureaucratic waste and turmoil particularly in the New York City school system.

The group said ombudsmen, to be appointed by the governor for not more than two six-year terms, could investigate administrative acts on public education, continue research in all areas of public education, and establish a program to train ombudsmen to work locally in the secondary and state institutions of higher education.

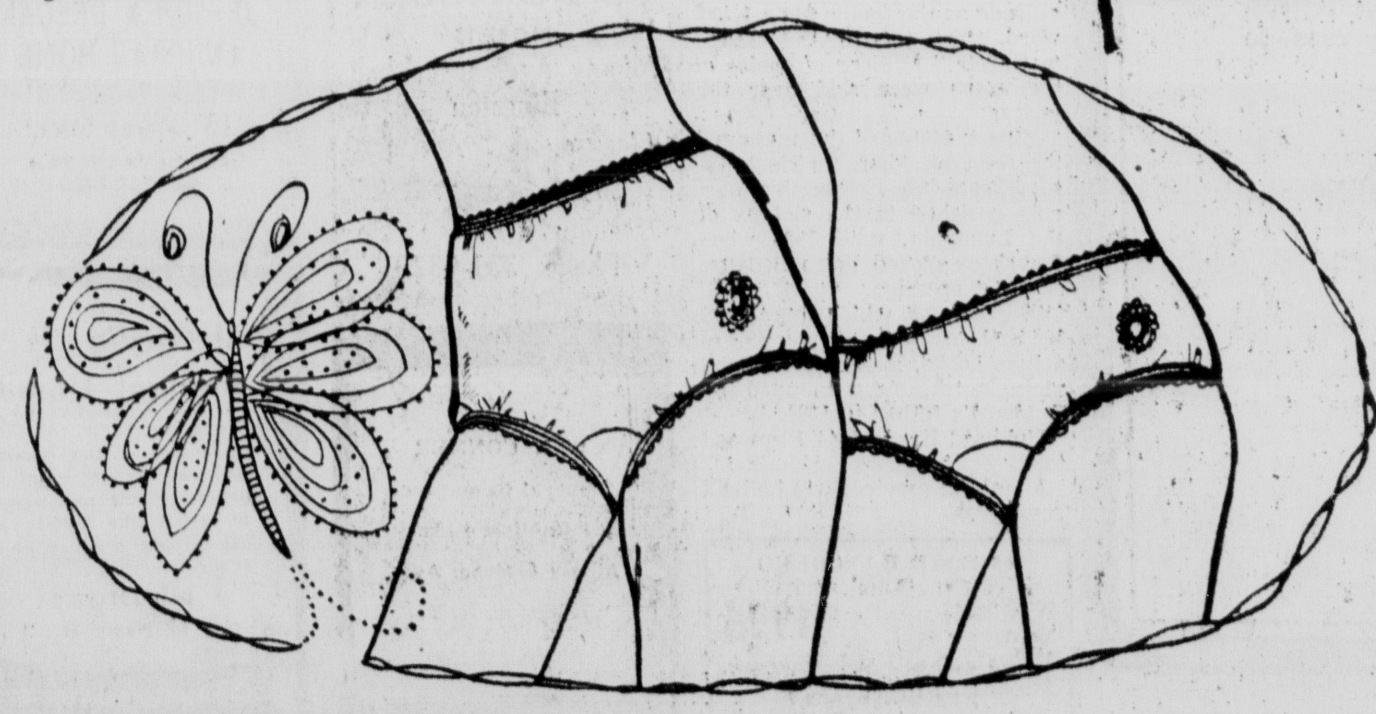

The legislators' bill also provides that, within the ombudsman's office, there be at least one race relations officer, one innovation technologist, and investigators of campus unrest and general grievance machinery, the group said.

The ombudsman, according to the bill, has only advisory and not enforcement powers. He can conduct public hearings.

Hijacked Airliner Lands in Baghdad

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — An Iranian airliner, hijacked with 22 persons on board, landed in Baghdad, Iraq, today, the Iraqi news agency reported.

Airport authorities there at first denied the twin-engine DC3 permission to land but relented after the plane's American pilot reported he was running out of gas.

The air taxi firm which chartered the plane said in Tehran, Iran, that the plane was not critically short of fuel. It had been badly strained for several years, the Iraqi government land at Doha where it took on fuel, then left for Baghdad. Iranian officials said the crews.

Muskie Sounds Out Dems On the 1972 Candidacy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, says he has started to sound Democratic leaders about possible support for the presidency in 1972.

So far, the inquiries have been made "in a tentative, limited way," Muskie said. But that effort "obviously has to be expanded and escalated," he added.

"When the final decision comes, it will depend, I think, largely upon whether I think I am the candidate or the man who can best serve that function."

Muskie, just elected for his third term in the Senate, would not say who he has contacted in his probe of Democratic feeling for his candidacy. To reveal the contacts, he said, "would misrepresent the nature of my interests and my drive in this connection."

Just when he will make a decision whether to run, Muskie wouldn't say. "I don't have any fixed timetable in mind," he said.

One questioner said it appeared Muskie feels President Nixon can be beaten in 1972. He replied: "Any president is beatable."

He appeared on the NBC radio-television program "Meet the Press."

Hubbard Dies, Inspired Essay

BUFFALO (AP) — Elbert Hubbard II, who as a teen-ager inspired the essay "A Message to Garcia," has died at the age of 88.

Hubbard of suburban East Aurora died Sunday at a home in nearby Colden.

In 1899 while reading dispatches from the Spanish-American War, Hubbard called his father's attention to Lt. Andrew Rowan, who delivered a message from President McKinley to rebel leader Nunez Calixto in the Cuban jungles.

The elder Hubbard used the episode as the theme for a 1,400-word essay titled "A Message to Garcia." Millions of copies of the essay were sold over the years.

Elbert Hubbard II managed the Roycroft Shops in East Aurora from 1915, when his parents perished in the sinking of the Lusitania, until 1938 when the shops closed down because of the depression.

The shops, which employed 500 artisans in the production of deluxe books, leather goods and metal work, were founded by Hubbard's father in 1894.

Hubbard lived at 44 Elmwood Ave.

Memorial services will be held Tuesday.

Brooklyn Man Charged in Car Theft on T'way

KINGSTON Alertness of a state trooper shortly before 8:30 a.m. Sunday resulted in the arrest of a 23-year-old Brooklyn man on a charge of auto theft and the recovery of a late model car that had been reported stolen in New York City in August.

Trooper R. J. Reilly of the Thruway detail stopped a vehicle driven by Peter Haros on the superhighway in the Town of Saugerties. A check by the trooper through the State Police computer system and papers in possession of the man disclosed the car had been stolen.

Haros was arraigned before Kingston Town Justice Robert Ferrigan on a charge of criminal possession of a stolen motor vehicle first degree. A plea of innocent was entered and Haros was committed to the county jail in lieu of $1,000 bail pending a preliminary hearing.

San Francisco Back in Gear; Cable Cars Go

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Cable cars climbed San Francisco hills between Market Street and the northern waterfront at their usual nine miles an hour today following the end of a 57-hour wildcat strike.

Conductors and gripmen voted almost unanimously to end the walkout Sunday.

A Municipal Railway spokesman declared that those who left their jobs would not be paid and Mayor Joseph L. Alioto had said he would accept a year-long strike rather than give in to strikers' demands.

Trouble started Thursday night at a collision between a cable car and a pickup. Police arrested three cable car employees on charges of battery and resisting arrest.

Other Muni employees and policemen swarmed to the scene and service stopped.

Before returning to their jobs, strikers had demanded that charges against the three be dropped and that patrolmen be disciplined. They contended there were racist overtones since two of the three are black. Those demands were rejected.

Government Gets Out Of Silver Business

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Treasury's Office of Gold and Silver Operation.

In other words, the supply of the metal has fallen so short of the demand that the face value of silver coins is worth less than the money and selling the silver.

At the last sale a few weeks ago, silver brought a price of $1.76 an ounce. Three years ago the set price for silver was $1.29 an ounce.

For all practical purposes, silver coinage ended in the United States in 1965 when Congress ordered all American coins except the Kennedy half-dollar minted from a copper-nickel alloy.

Now, because of the supply and demand problem, even the Kennedy coin is not being made.

Silver coins were used in this country in the early years, and through most of the 19th century the U.S. money system was based on both gold and silver.

But in 1873 the nation, along with most of Europe, went on a strictly gold standard, leading to a struggle that nearly split the Democratic party and embittered U.S. farmers against the Eastern business and banking community.

The issue at that time revolved around the farmer's and other workingmen's desire for more available money—easier credit—against the banker-businessman's contention that hard currency—gold—was the only protection against inflation and a debtor economy.

The issue reached its climax when William Jennings Bryan won the Democratic presidential nomination in 1896 after his famous speech in which he thundered at the bankers: "You shall not crucify mankind upon a cross of gold."

But, faced with mass desertions from his party, Bryan lost in 1896 and twice more: the political appeal of freer silver lost with him.

Gold remained the nation's money base until 1933 when President Franklin D. Roosevelt took the United States off the gold standard in an anti-Depression move.

Tuesday's severing from the silver market won't quite cut all government relations with the metal. The Treasury still has about 24 million ounces of unrefined silver and the Defense stockpile has another 165 million ounces—for industrial use in emergencies and in the event some future Congress might decide a silver coin is needed.

North Korean Says He Was To Kill Leaders

SEOUL (UPI)—A North Korean agent captured off Inchon 25 miles west of Seoul said today he had been sent on a mission to assassinate South Korean leaders and create social confusion.

Kang Ui-Gu, 39, the agent, said at a news conference his mission also included the formation of an underground Communist party and collection of information on South Korea's industrial facilities.

Kang was captured by South Korean militiamen Sunday morning after landing on Yuldo Island off Inchon. His companion, Choi Kyung-Chul, 40, was killed in a gun battle with South Korean troops and militiamen. One South Korean soldier and

Vermont May Try New Trick On the Champlain Sludge

MONTPELIER, Vt. (UPI)—The State of Vermont may try a different approach in its fight to force the removal of sludge deposits from Lake Champlain off Ticonderoga, N.Y.

The International Paper Co., which has discharged the sludge into Ticonderoga Bay through the years, wants permission from the Army Corps of Engineers to dump treated wastes into the lake from its new plant, scheduled to go into operation in the next several weeks.

Although the discharges would not harm the lake, interested parties have 60 days to file formal objections to the plan. Vermont Water Resources Commissioner Martin Johnson said Saturday Vermont may do just that if the company doesn't agree to quick removal of the sludge.

Paper company officials, working with New York's State Department of Environmental Conservation, are conducting an experimental sludge removal program. The program is aimed at determining whether removal of all the sludge would prove more hazardous to the lake than it would be to leave the accumulation of settlement on the bottom.

Local LWV In Opposition To Trade Bill

KINGSTON The Kingston League of Women Voters urges the public to write their Congressmen to vote against the Trade Bill (H.R. 18970) now pending before Congress. The Rules Committee cleared the bill on Sept. 23 with a Closed Rule, meaning the House will vote the measure up or down as is, with no Amendments.

An appeal came in a strongly worded letter from Lucy Wilson Benson, president of the League of Women Voters; Betty Furr, chairman and executive director of the New York State Consumer Protection Board and former Special Assistant to the President for Consumer Affairs. The legislation would have a disastrous direct effect on the American consumer by raising prices and by limiting imports of low-cost products.

The group pointed out that the national, state and local consumer groups of the inflationary aspects of the pending legislation and the need for their help in defeating it.

The signers warned: "Congress is now considering a bill which Virginia Knauer, the President's Special Assistant for Consumer Affairs describes as 'The most significant anti-consumer legislation now in Congress.'"

Propose 7 Cents Per Vote Limit For Campaigning

Gen. Louis J. Lefkowitz will urge the state legislature to place a 7 cents-per-vote ceiling on television and radio advertising in state elections.

Lefkowitz said in a statement Sunday the spending ceiling, amounting to about $500,000, should remain until federal law requires television stations to devote more free time to candidates.

Present state law limits general campaign spending to about 10 cents a voter, but Lefkowitz said the legislation has "one major defect."

"If a campaign committee does not take part 'solely' in the campaign of one candidate, for example, if it contributes money to two candidates, then the committee's expenditures are excluded from both candidates' spending ceilings," Lefkowitz said.

Lefkowitz said he would recommend the law be changed to require that every candidate report all spending from all sources. The 7 cents-per-vote limit would apply to radio and television while the existing 10-cent limitation on overall campaign spending would be retained.

Lefkowitz' recommendation first made the week before election, came after a campaign in which Governor Rockefeller, who headed the successful Republican ticket Lefkowitz won re-election on, was said to have spent more than $10 million. Much of that sum was for television advertising.

Marbletown Sets Vets Services

STONE RIDGE Special memorial services for veterans of the Town of Marbletown will be held Veterans Day, 9:30 a.m.

The rites Wednesday will be at the American Legion Hall, Stone Ridge, rain or shine. Special awards will be given to local schools and town officials.

Kennedy Favors Holding Some Men in Europe

THE HAGUE (UPI) — U.S. Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., said Sunday on arrival for a meeting of the North Atlantic Council that America should keep a substantial number of troops in Europe.

The question of troop withdrawals from Europe is one of the major topics for the meeting, opening today.

Kennedy told newsmen "I support the view, there has to be a substantial presence of American troops in Europe, but that does not mean we should not reconsider whether some cuts would be possible. However, it remains the American policy a significant and continued commitment should be maintained."

The senator said it was just his second council meeting and "I have not come to make pronouncements and state-

Dems Reclaim Share of Vital Governors' Offices

WASHINGTON (UPI) — When hard times beset the GOP, it began its comeback in the statehouses. The Democrats now have reclaimed a majority of the governorships and can hope at least to read the same meaning into their domination of more state capitals. Governors' offices have long been recognized as seats of power vital to party organization which is supposed to see that friendly voters register and vote. The Democratic Party organization decayed during the 1960s. Even when governors lack patronage powers to give state jobs to all county chairmen, they usually have a corps of troubleshooters to send to areas where repair work is needed. The Democratic pickup of governorships was the biggest surprise in the Nov. 3 outing with the Democrats in 1966 and kept going up until their margin reached 32 to 18 in 1970. National party labels have less meaning in electing governors than in the election of a President and Congress, especially to the 35 states picking governors in the middle of presidential terms as in 1970. Voters want more services but resist tax increases to pay for them. Gov. Kenneth M. Curtis, a Maine Democrat who got an income tax in his state, faces a recount to confirm or reverse his reelection vote. Thus, winning a governorship can mean a short trip to political oblivion. But there are exceptions. Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller was elected Nov. 3 to a fourth four-year term. If he completes it, he will set a modern record. Gov. John Love of Colorado, another Republican, was elected to a third four-year term. Democrats to a net gain in office in only 11 and the Republicans in 24. A political law of averages suggests the Democrats held the races, the Democrats held the governorships this year. In 35 states, the Democrats held the governorships in only 11 and the Republicans in 24.

Student, 22, Held In Slaying of Rochester Coed

LE ROY, N.Y. (AP) — A philosophy major faced murder charges today in the shooting of a University of Rochester co-ed.

Zygmunt Tobias, 22, of Rochester was held in the Genesee County jail in lieu of $50,000 bail on the charge. He is accused in the revolver slaying of Lorraine E. Redlinger, 21, of Rochester.

Tobias was arrested Saturday in a motel room by state police. Troopers said a .38 caliber revolver, which investigators said was believed to have been used in the slaying, was found in Tobias' car.

A bus driver found Miss Redlinger's body in a field near this village Friday. Troopers said she had been shot three times, but had not been sexually molested.

Ulster Town Building...Public Meeting Set

By ALBERT J. CAWEIN

LAKE KATRINE town office building. A public meeting on the proposal prepared by the Building Committee headed by Mrs. Bette Maxson will be held Tuesday 8 p.m. at the Chambers School and a referendum on the proposal will be held at a later date.

The Lake Katrine Grange Hall now houses several departments, town clerk's office, justice court, building inspector, water department, supervisor's office and constabulary. The assessors still operate from their own homes. Under these circumstances valuable town records are not kept under one roof in what can be described as safe and suitable storage facilities.

In addition parking space is limited at the grange hall, especially on Wednesdays when

The proposed town building on town property on Mulvin Drive, about four acres, would be 79 by 109 feet and there would be parking space for 90 cars. It would provide a meeting room with a seating capacity of 200, which would serve as a courtroom as well.

The project would be financed with a 30-year bond issue at an estimated 6 per cent interest. Based on the current total assessment of about $11,000,000, the cost would increase the tax rate by about $3 per $1,000 of assessed valuation.

Site plans and an architect's drawing will be on view at the hearing.

The architect is Anita Yuran and each year of waiting and delay will reflect in increased costs as building materials and labor costs go higher.

The Building Committee headed by Mrs. Maxson includes John Mulvin, John Sullivan, John Smith and Roy Reid. They will be at the hearing to answer questions in regard to the proposal.

The Young Marines Get Koenig's Praise

KINGSTON, Commenting on the three-day trip, Gray said, "the good extended his 'sincere appreciation' to the officers and county realize that, not only is this an important event for the Young Marines, but it also does great honor to Kingston and Ulster County."

In a letter to Gilbert E. Gray, commander of the units, Mayor Koenig commended Gray and John Ray Mayone, executive officer, and the staff of Marines for "the splendid work you have done with the Young Marines."

He added, "to be able to work with the youth of our community is an asset."

"To watch them grow from children to adults and know you had a large hand in molding their characters must be rewarding," Koenig said.

The praise and commendation came as the mayor referred to the Young Marines planned participation in the National Memorial observance at Arlington Cemetery on Nov. 11.

Mayone, officer in charge of the trip to Washington, D. C., explained that his unit will leave Kingston Tuesday, Nov. 10 at 8 a.m., for the U.S. Marine Corps Base at Quantico, Va.

The Young Marines will stay at the base that night and take part in the ceremonies at 11 a.m. the following day.

The group will spend Wednesday in Washington and return to this city on Thursday, Nov. 12, arriving here about 9 p.m.

Mayone and Gray noted there are still some of the boys who need sponsors for the trip. Individuals and organizations are urged to make donations to finance the project for some boys.

Herschowsky-Trosch Wedding Told

Announcement was made today of the wedding of Miss Teena Honey Herschowsky, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Julius Herschowsky of Accord, and Gene Trosch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ira Trosch of Weirton, W. Va. The afternoon ceremony took place at the Granit Hotel with Rabbi Jonathan Eichhorn officiating at the double ring ceremony. Bill Bennett provided traditional wedding selections. Arrangements of yellow chrysanthemums and yellow and white gladioli decorated the canopy and there were aisle bouquets of Fugi mums, chrysanthemums, and gladioli.

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride selected a gown of satin faille fashioned with a high necked empire bodice of Alencon lace. The long full sleeves were appliqued and deeply cuffed with lace. A V-shaped panel at the skirt front was reembroidered with seed pearls. Matching lace banded the hemline and the chapel length train. She wore pearl headpiece, with a double tiered illusion veil. She carried a casual colonial bouquet of white rose buds, miniature carnations, springerli fern and stephanotis with satin streamers.

Miss Rosalyn Baumgold of Briarwood, L. I. was maid of honor in a gown of mint green chiffon with a bolero of laticed Venise lace. She carried a fireside basket of yellow daisies and salmon colored carnations. Attendants were Mrs. Claudia Pettine, Newburgh; and Miss Cheryl Magsitz, Bronx, cousin of the bride. Their chiffon pants-gowns were identical to the maid of honor's but in pale yellow. Each attendant carried fireside baskets of daisy pompons and leather leaf fern.

Erica Herschowsky of Accord, niece of the bride and Esther Seltzer, Brooklyn, were flower girls. They wore gowns of pale yellow chiffon, with short sleeves and stand up collars. Both had garlands of tiny yellow rosebuds in their hair. They carried fireside baskets and tossed yellow rose petals.

John Alessio of Cedar Falls, Iowa, was best man. Ushers were David Dye, Weirton, West Virginia and Thomas Stone, Wilmington, Ohio, both brother-in-laws of the bridegroom. Two ring bearers were Robert Cuozzi, New York City, cousin of the bride and Skooter Stone of Wilmington, Ohio, nephew of the bridegroom.

A reception for 175 guests was held in the crystal room of the Granit Hotel, with Bill Bennett providing music for dancing.

For her wedding trip to New York, the bride wore a tangerine pantsuit with brown accessories, and a corsage of yellow roses and stephanotis.

The bride is a graduate of Rondout Valley Central High School and a 1970 graduate of University of Miami, Florida. She will be employed as a teacher.

The bridegroom received a BA from the University of Miami in Business. He is at present in professional football. Mr. Trosch is under contract to the World Champion Football Team, The Kansas City Chiefs in Missouri.

'Yardstick Family Fashions' Program

Are you sewing more than ever for yourself, your family and your home? Are you thinking mini, midi, maxi for Fall 1970. To learn how to plan, purchase and accessorize a wardrobe, Ulster County Home Economics Division invites area women to hear Simplicity Pattern Company's Special Educational Field representative, Miss Helen Wright, as she helps "measure up" the fashion picture length-wise, sew-wise, and dollar-wise. This program is presented in co-operation with the Ulster County Extension Service.

"Yardstick Family Fashions" is the title of this program and will be presented by Miss Wright on November 12 at the Hurley Reformed Church Educational Building, Hurley, from 10 a.m. to noon. Lower your sights on hemlines most becoming to you. Lower your family clothing budget by coordinating daughters' wardrobe to your own. Raise your fashion sense to new heights by sewing on the newest of fabrics and incorporating the latest couture techniques.

Inch your way into your toddler's world by sewing educational playclothes for the pre-schooler. Discover how you can teach numbers, colors, letters, shapes and animals to the tiny tots for whom you sew. Ideas on these, as well as details on pattern selection, fabric selection, use and care for your own wardrobe and many other sewing techniques will be presented by Miss Wright. A wardrobe of garments in new fall fabrics and fashions planned to include up-to-the-minute couture dressmaking is also featured in this presentation. Many garments will be modeled. Miss Wright, who is a former teacher and has presented Simplicity Educational Programs throughout the country for the past 12 years, has the enthusiasm which will assist both teachers and students as well as the home sewing consumer in the rewarding challenge of creative clothing construction.

The program is open to the public and is a valuable program for all home sewers.

Sandra Smith Weds Richard Bollin

Miss Sandra A. Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry A. Smith Sr. of 3 Cherry Lane, Saugerties, became the bride of Richard R. Bollin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard L. Bollin of Route 2, Box 192-B, Saugerties, on Saturday, Oct. 24 at Trinity Episcopal Church, Saugerties.

The Rev. Richard G. Shepard officiated at the double ring ceremony. Richard Nasby sang traditional wedding selections, accompanied at the organ by Robert Moore. Baskets of colored chrysanthemums and pompons decorated the altar and white bows marked the family pews.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride selected an A-line gown of peau de soie, trimmed with Venice lace. The gown which was made by the bridegroom's mother featured Juliet sleeves and a cathedral train. Her cathedral length imported silk illusion veil was secured to a stylized headpiece of Venice lace flowers, trimmed with crystals and seed pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of miniature carnations and daisies, trimmed with baby's breath.

Sandra Robinson of Saugerties was honor attendant in a rose pink crepe gown, styled with bishop sleeves and a velvet burgundy bolero trimmed with gold braid. She wore a matching velvet headpiece and carried a bouquet of matching miniature carnations and daisies.

Attendants were Peggy

Johnstone, sister of the bride, Kingston; Delores Fiero, cousin of the bride, Saugerties; Susan Staudacher, Saugerties; and Nancy Nicoletti, Kingston. Their powder blue and royal blue gowns were fashioned identically to that of the honor attendant's. They wore matching velvet headpieces and carried bouquets of matching miniature carnations and daisies.

Stephanie Smith, niece of the bride, was flower girl in a pink crepe gown trimmed with white velvet and Venice lace. She wore a headpiece of white flowers with a small silk illusion veil and carried a basket of miniature carnations and daisies in pink and blue.

Gary Bollin, brother of the bridegroom, Saugerties, was best man. Ushers were Al Johnstone, brother-in-law of the bride, Kingston; Mark Muscarella, Richard O'Neal and Ricky Downey, all of Saugerties. Barnett Hoyt, nephew of the bride, served as ringbearer.

A reception for 150 guests was held at the Flamingo Restaurant in Saugerties.

For her wedding trip to Virginia, the bride selected a gray knit dress with matching coat and accessories.

The bride, a 1969 graduate of Saugerties High School, attended Ulster County Community College.

Her husband, a 1968 alumnus of Saugerties High School, attended Brockport State and Ulster County Community College. He is employed as a meat cutter for Victory Markets, Inc.

Sorosis Meeting Held

At a meeting of Sorosis of Kingston held Monday, Nov. 2 at the home of Mrs. William Rylance, Miss Martha Freer introduced Mrs. Ruth Smiley, guest speaker, who presented slides to illustrate her talk on conservation.

Mrs. Smiley showed the devastating results of over-use of land, pollution of air and water, and the disastrous results of the indiscriminate use of DDT. She urged each member to accept personal responsibility in prevention of this trend by, for example, using only those detergents low in phosphate content, avoiding use of no-return bottles, driving smaller cars, and backing legislation aimed at correcting the ecological abuses.

Mrs. Clifford Henze, delegate to the Community Planning meeting held October 27 at Kingston High School, gave a detailed report of the work done to date by Ulster County Planning Board and the Land Development Committee. She outlined the reasons for these activities and the overall objectives and methods suggested to accomplish the desired improvements. Her report was received with enthusiasm and a spirited discussion took place afterward. Sorosis commended the committee and its efforts and urged members to give their support to Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce in their forward-looking endeavors to improve Ulster County.

Mrs. Henry Eighmey, president, was in charge of the business meeting.

The next meeting, to take place Monday, Nov. 16, will be a Silver Tea at Fair Street Reformed Church parlors. Members may invite guests.

Each year at Thanksgiving, Sorosis collects a substantial donation for CARE. This year the guest speaker at the meeting will be Mrs. Maxine G. Blauner, Assistant Regional Director for CARE, who will talk on GFWC-CARE, "Human Factor Program," for 1970-72.

At the social hour which took place after the meeting, Mrs. William McVey was extended birthday greetings. Mrs. Clifford Henze poured at the tea table.

Look Here Mrs. Homemaker!

FURS AND FAKE FURS

This is the season of fabulous furs—the wild life look-alikes in synthetic fur fabric—as well as the real fresh-from-the-hunt pelts. If you're planning to sew with fur this fall, think about some of the following points, says Phyllis W. Barlow, Extension Home Economist.

The type of fur you choose will be a guide to the pattern you select. The bulkier, deep-pile furs require a simpler design than the smooth pelt fabrics. Select a style with simple, straight lines—let the lush pile and animal markings make the garment look important. Avoid eased seams as the fur and fake fur fabrics are difficult to ease. Sleeves may be set in; however, a raglan sleeve will be much easier.

The fake furs are made from a variety of synthetics—acetate, acrylic, or rayon—and have either a woven or knit backing. Read the care instructions on the hang tag or on the label on the fabric bolt. Some are washable, but most require dry-cleaning. Make sure you purchase a fur that will wear well. Fold the fabric and examine the folded edge. If the hairs are sparse, the fabric will quickly show signs of wear.

• If you are not sure of the fit of a garment, make the garment in muslin first. Alterations can be made on the muslin and then this can be used to cut out the garment.

• Work with the fabric spread out, wrong side up and pin the pattern to the backing. With bulky, long haired fabrics, each piece should be cut separately, be sure to reverse pattern piece after cutting one half so you'll have both a right and left side.

• Reduce bulk by eliminating seams wherever possible; for example, if a pattern calls for a straight edge to be faced with self-fabric (as at a front closing), pin the seam line of the facing pattern to the seam line of the bodice front pattern. Cut the facing in one piece with the front.

• Cut with sharp shears. Use a single edge razor blade for the long-haired furs. Cut carefully so that you cut only the fabric backing, not the long hairs.

• Stitch in the direction of the nap. Push the pile away from the seams as you stitch.

• To avoid the "clipped off" look of hair caught into the seam, use a pin to gently pull the hairs out of the seam.

• All seams should be finished to prevent fuzz and little bits of pile from fraying the seams.

• The invisible zipper can be inserted successfully in the short pile fabrics. For long haired furs, sew the zipper in by hand.

Use the furs and fake furs both inside and out. Line a coat, trim a jacket, sew a vest, a skirt—let your imagination be as wild as your fabric.

Maroons Win Everything But the Ball Game

By MORT LAFFIN

KINGSTON Saturday. And, it was never used more after any game so far this season as it was after this one.

The Fighting Maroons outplayed the Kingston High School team with the best performance of the season Saturday, but dropped a 14-9 decision to an opponent, New Rochelle football team at Dietz Stadium.

Kingston rolled up 13 first downs to five by the visitors and had 157 yards rushing, 121 by Flying Joe Riley, the York State's Scholastic Poll next to just 26 by the winners. The Maroons were six-for-15 in the passing department for 45 yards. New Rochelle passers hit time this year, it certainly was seven-of-15 and 77 yards.

The teams traded punts in the dyke. However, Dave Kates lam broke loose of KHS had a defensive line. Quarterback up with the big play to put the of the end zone for a safety, making the score 14-9.

The winners then kicked off from their 20 as dictated by the safety rule and KHS had the ball on about the 48-yard line of the visitors. Once again, however, Kingston couldn't come up with the big play that they needed. And, after two first downs, had to give up the ball.

New Rochelle hung on for four downs and gave the ball back on the KHS 30 with less than a minute to play.

Kingston tried an end-around pass from Dennis Harrison to Mark Snyder. Harrison uncorked a 60-yard beauty, but the ball just missed the outstretched hands of Snyder. The game ending with QB Glenn Littlefield hitting Terry Wirth with a 15-yard strike.

It Was No Fun for Boys From Syracuse

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Sports Editor.

WEST POINT A day long rock and sock contest was climaxed by back-to-back brawls that cleared both benches and involved pockets of spectators in the last minute and left Army coach Tom Cahill spitting blood from a blow, or blows, of an assailant he was never able to identify.

Albano, the 6-foot, 180 pound senior end from West Caldwell, N. J., rewrote the Army record book in the pass catching department. His 13 catches for 166 yards broke his own single game mark of 10 catches which he achieved twice this season. The 166-yard total shattered the Army record of 156 yards set by Gary Steele against Penn State in 1968.

Albano's 13 catches boosted his season's total of 44, breaking the record of 43 set by Army's famed Lonely End-Bill Carhapless 1-7 team, which had dropped seven straight after Oregon beating Holy Cross in the 1970 opener.

A big victory would have solidified Syracuse's bid for a post-season nod. It didn't quite work out that way. Instead, the odds makers took a bad beating as underdog Army inspired by the fantastic pass catching performance of Joe Albano gave the Orange conniptions before yielding, 31-29, in what has to rate as one of the most exciting football games ever played at the Point.

The Orange led the rest of the way, but the Cadets didn't catch fire until Dick Atha, a 6-2 southpaw passer from Worthington, Ohio, replaced starter Bob Mohn with 5:52 left in the second quarter. Atha, a bright star in Army's future, proceeded to complete 19 of 30 passes for 224 yards and two touchdowns.

The phenomenal Atha-Albano combination made the game a truly exciting spectacle. Syracuse, held for downs on the six-inch line early in the 4th quarter, completely dominated with 345 yards rushing to only 36 for Army. In passing, Army held a 229-30 edge.

The first brawl between the team came with 25 seconds left to play after Atha's seventh straight completion hit Albano from the 21 all by himself in the end zone. Players and some spectators slugged it out for five minutes. Order was restored and Army decided to go for the 2-point conversion.

Atha switched to tight end John Simar in the right corner of the end zone to cut Syracuse down to 31-29. Fights again erupted between the players and between fans and the benches again cleared. This time for about three minutes.

Every fan in the stadium knew what to expect next. But Syracuse thwarted Army's bid to receive an on side kick and run out the clock. Ironically, the officials did not call a penalty in either rhubarb, causing coach Cahill to remark, "The officials technically lost control of the game."

Praetorius and his Orange teammates were in a jovial mood before the game, as they inspected the hallowed sod of Michie Stadium.

"I'm having a lot of fun playing college football," he remarked. "We've come back well after our earlier difficulties and we all think we still have a shot at one of the bowls."

Was he possibly thinking about a professional football career at this early stage? "I really haven't given it much thought," he said. "I don't even know what career I plan to pursue." The tall, handsome youngster is majoring in engineering.

The former Sawyer was not surprised by the Syracuse margin of victory over Pitts- burgh, the victory that solidified coach Ben Schwartzwalder's squad. "I thought we should have beaten them even worse," he said.

Praetorius, who contributed 50 yards in 13 carries, didn't have as much fun as he would have liked. But the win was not a big one for Syracuse. The paner thin margin may have cost them a bowl invitation.

Liberty Nips Paltz, 7 to 6

LIBERTY Senior Bruce Rosencranse finished his fabulous varsity career with a 1031 yard rushing season here Saturday as he scored the lone touchdown for Liberty in a 7-6 upset of New Paltz.

The win boosted Liberty into third place in the final UCAI standings with a 4-2-1 record and dropped the Huguenots to fourth with a 4-3 log.

Rosencranse tallied the winning TD in the second quarter after Ken Kalina recovered a New Paltz fumble on the twenty. The Liberty back journeyed 15 yards for the six points, then kicked the POT.

New Paltz's touchdown resulted from Harold Anderson's block of a Liberty punt which linebacker John Palonis picked up and ran into the endzone.

Both teams had scoring plays wiped out by penalties. In the first quarter a 32 yard strike from Kalina to Jim Dworetzky was called back because of a Liberty error. Later, Huguenot Joe Williams ran 56 yards to paydirt only to see the play nullified on an illegal procedure call.

Just prior to the end of the first half, Liberty held New Paltz four times at the one yard line.

Rosencranse, one of the area's top scorers this season, carried 19 times for 108 yards in the game.

Switch to the Irish Swift — Inevitable

By HERSCHEL NISSÉSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

There's no such thing as a super team . . . or is there?

The author of the first part of that statement is Bill Beall, whose Baylor team gave top-rated Texas all it could handle Saturday before bowing 21-14 on a pair of Steve Worster touchdowns.

But he may get an argument from Bud Carson of Georgia Tech, whose next assignment is second-ranked Notre Dame, fresh from a 46-14 pounding of Pitt.

"Let me emphasize that I think Notre Dame is the best team in the country," Carson said after Saturday's 30-8 triumph over Navy. "I've seen films of Ohio State and Texas, but I feel we'll be playing the best there is this weekend. They're in a class by themselves."

Elsewhere, the big news was Stanford's 29-22 come-from-behind victory over Washington, putting the sixth-ranked Indians in the Rose Bowl; Oregon's wild 46-35 triumph over No. 9 Air Force which dropped the Falcons from the unbeaten ranks; and the broken left arm suffered by Mississippi's brilliant Archie Manning during a 24-13 win over Houston.

on the field speak for his qualifications for the Heisman Trophy. His performance was eloquent. Theismann probably is Plunkett's chief competition.

Third-ranked Ohio State and No. 5 Michigan continued to share the Big Ten lead with the showdown coming up Nov. 21. The Buckeyes struggled past Wisconsin 24-7 behind John Brockington's three touchdowns while Michigan breezed past Illinois 42-0 as Glenn Doughty and Silly Taylor each scored twice.

Nebraska, rated fourth, swept past Iowa State 54-29 as Joe Ornduna scored three touchdowns and Jerry Tagge passed for two. Seventh-ranked Arkansas, led by Bill Montgomery's three TDs, overcame a 14-3 halftime deficit and whipped Rice 38-14 to keep pace with Texas in the Southwest Conference.

Tennessee ranked eighth, needed George Hunt's 31-yard field goal with 15 seconds left to nip South Carolina 20-18 and No. 10 Auburn blasted Mississippi State 56-0 behind sharpshooting Pat Sullivan.

Heading the Second Ten, Louisiana State's rugged defense stifled Alabama 14-9 in a match between the teams ranked 11th and 19th. Arizona State, No. 12, trounced San Jose State 46-10 with Bobby Thomas scoring three times but 14th-ranked San Diego State needed a fourth-period pass from Brian Sipe to Tim Delaney to edge Pacific 14-13. The losers' John Read, the nation's No. 2 passer, suffered torn knee ligaments.

Toledo, ranked 15th, walloped Northern Illinois 45-7. No. 17 Dartmouth hammered Columbia 55-0, the biggest victory margin in Ivy League history, and No. 20 Syracuse fought off — literally — Army 31-29 as two free-for-alls broke out in the closing seconds.

Other whopping scores included Southern California 70-33 over Washington State, Boston College 65-12 over Buffalo and North Carolina 62-13 over VMI. Wake Forest stunned Duke 28-14 for the lead in the Atlantic Coast Conference. Louisville knocked off Memphis State 40-27 and won its way into the Pasadena Bowl as the Missouri Valley's representative and Kansas State whipped Oklahoma State 28-15, setting up next week's Big Eight shootout with Nebraska.

Bruins Get Revenge

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

There was something missing in Boston's run to the National Hockey League Stanley Cup last season. That something was the Montreal Canadiens, who missed the playoffs for the first time in 22 years last spring.

The Canadiens had eliminated the Bruins in two straight playoffs and Boston wanted revenge. Denied the chance in the playoffs, the Bruins had to bide their time until Sunday night when they met the Canadiens for the first time this season. For Boston, it was worth the wait.

The Bruins battered the Canadiens 6-1 and the game was spiced by a second-period brawl that emptied both benches and needed police intervention to finally stop it.

Elsewhere in the NHL Sunday, Philadelphia tripped Buffalo 3-1, Pittsburgh tied Detroit 3-3 and Minnesota and Chicago battled to a 3-3 tie.

In Saturday's games, Montreal walloped Buffalo 11-2, Vancouver topped Toronto 3-2, New York defeated Los Angeles 6-2, Boston and Pittsburgh played to a 2-2 tie, Chicago tied Philadelphia 1-1 and St. Louis and Minnesota played to a 1-1 deadlock.

Smooth Phil Esposito, the NHL's leading scorer, hit a goal and assisted on two others as the Bruins exploded for 48 shots at goalies Rogatien Vachon and Phil Myre.

Esposito's first assist set up a short-handed goal by Jed Wes in the first period — one of three the Bruins scored in the opening 20 minutes.

There was less than half a minute remaining in the first period when the brawl started with Boston's Ken Hodge and Claude Larose of the Canadiens touching off.

It soon spread with both benches emptying and the fighting spilling over to the Montreal bench where Boston police had to restrain the Canadiens from going after fans. Six major penalties—three for each team—resulted from the fuss.

Defenseman Wayne Hillman set up Jimmy Johnson's tying goal in the last 1½ minutes of the second period and then scored Philadelphia's winner 28 seconds into the third as the Flyers beat Buffalo.

Gil Perreault's early goal had provided the Sabres with a 1-0 edge which stood up until Hillman's goal-mouth feed set up Johnson. Bob Kelly gave the Flyers an insurance goal in the third period.

Jean Pronovost gave Pittsburgh its tie against Detroit when he scored his second goal of the night with just two minutes left to play.

Pronovost's dribbler slipped past goalie Roy Edwards at 17:57 of the third period climaxing a Penguin comeback after Detroit had moved out to a 3-1 lead.

Pronovost's first goal had balanced an early tally by Gordie Howe but then Don Luce and Garry Unger had moved the Wings in front. Ken Schinkel brought Pittsburgh back to within striking distance before Pronovost tied it.

Danny Grant's second goal of the game moved Minnesota into tie with Chicago. Grant connected early in the third period—the only score of the final 20 minutes. He and Murray Oliver scored in the second while Stan Mikita, Bobby Hull and Dan Mahoney hit for Chicago.

Highland Downs Marlboro for UCAL Crown

By IRA FUSFELD

It was quiet in the visitors' locker room at Meekins Field. A young football team from Marlboro sat on benches in front of their stalls, few taking off their orange jerseys with the dark numerals, some weeping. Highland had just played its strongest game of the season but almost prevented Highland from winning the UCAL championship. At the end, the Big Blue did come out on top, 14-7, to grab the County crown for the first time since 1967. But it was the fighting Duke team that was the story on this particular Saturday afternoon. "I think we have the advantage in a negative sort of way today," Marlboro coach Jerry Trezza had said prior to the opening kickoff. "They're probably overconfident. We have nothing to lose, they have everything to lose."

But Highland looked anything but overconfident when it marched up the field the first time it had the ball. Going 53 yards in nine plays, the home team scored on a two yard drive by Perry Monroe, who had spearheaded the drive with his hard, high kicking running style.

While the offense kept plugging the defense held Highland at bay for the rest of the half. At times the Dukes couldn't prevent long gainers by Perry or Ron Monroe and the throwing of Bob Mattice, but Marlboro always made the stops when they counted.

Highland finally scored the touchdown that proved to be the championship winner early in the third quarter. The Big Blue took a Duke punt on the 37 yard line. Perry Monroe scampered to the 28 for a first down, but Highland was thwarted two straight times before Monroe picked up another 15 yards on a leaping, stretching jaunt. Five plays later he scored from the one. A pass from Doug Geer remained as Salinovich carried some game to watch, but it was to Ron Monroe added two points.

Marlboro Scores HHS. The game Marlboro team then injected the first of several scares into the partisan home crowd. Quarterback Jones hit Tom Coupart for a 61-yard pickup to the 11. Salinovich traveled on the ground to the three, then went into the zone on the next play. However, a holding penalty wiped out the score and Highland eventually took over on the 15.

Both teams traded punts and time was running out as Marlboro took possession for the final time on Highland's 46. Again, Jones hit Coupart, this time on the 14. Then Gary Casabura grabbed a Jones' toss on the six. Fifty seconds

So Highland finished with a 6-1 record, only losing to Rondout, but Marlboro, despite Jones' three incomplete pass a 25 mark, served notice on the rest of the league that they will be a big factor in next year's race.

Sawyers Top BHS

By TIM SCHUSTER

It was just the end of a so-so season, but Saugerties' 38-6 whipping of a tired Beacon eleven Saturday was a cause for the hometown fans to finally work out their vocal cords.

From the first period, it was evident that the Sawyers would have little trouble with the DCSL doormat. The first TD came the first time they had the ball, a 25 yard pass from quarterback Rich Koegel to Jerry Malgieri capping a 66 yard drive.

It was the first start for running back Malgieri, a senior, since he was injured prior to the first game of the season in practice, and he made full use of his opportunity.

A similar 60 yard series of downs set up a ten-yard touchdown pass from Koegel to Skip Van Blaricum, who was all alone in the end zone but bobbled the ball before falling to the ground clutching it to his chest. This score was the first play of the second period.

Saugerties added another six-point minutes later when back Ray Bean took a pass over his head from 36 yards out for the score and Koegel's third touchdown pass of the afternoon.

Malgieri scored his second time from the two-yard line on getting past the Saugerties 48 yard line for the first time. Bill Sampson ran for two first-downs around right end. Harry Coris got another to the 25, and Sampson ran to the 15. Sampson was elected to carry from the 6 for the touchdown around the right end once again.

And the Saugerties fans held their breath momentarily when senior end Skip Van Blaricum was knocked out on the field in the waning minutes of the game, but a couple of whiffs of ammonia enabled him to make his way to the sidelines grinning.

Thus, Saugerties finishes its season with a 3-5 overall record, 3-4 in the DCSL, and should have a stronger team on the field next year with many experienced boys returning, especially in the backfield.

John Cronan and Dana Holmquist each had a pass interception for the Sawyers. Fumble recoveries were made by Coris and Fenner of Beacon and by Gary Richardson of Saugerties.

And the sometimes bizarre combinations put together the final Saugerties touchdown of the 1970 season early in the fourth quarter. After running off of a modified shotgun offense, Ray Bean launched the TD pass to quarterback Koegel, a 26 yard play.

And Malgieri passed to guard-end Steve Nicholich for the two-point conversion, making it 38-0.

Beacon began moving the ball late in the fourth quarter.

Blue Devils Score

RED HOOK and Ellenville each scored two touchdowns in their grid contest Saturday, but the visitors won 14-12 with a two-point conversion spelling the difference.

Quarterback Wayne Grey led the Ellies, scoring eight points on a second period touchdown and two extra points in the third.

The final game of the season for Red Hook, a non-leaguer, puts the Red Raiders at a 3-4-1 mark overall and a 3-2-1 in the Bi-Valley League.

It was the final game for Red Hook in the Bi-Valley, as the club will be joining the UCAL next autumn.

The first blood was drawn Saturday by Raider quarterback Dan Theberge, who led his team 70 yards to paydirt and ran over himself from the four.

The snap from center was bad on the try for the extra points, and the play didn't get underway.

Grey tied it up minutes later with a one-yard leap, capping a 55 yard drive downfield. The try for the extra points was no good, putting the score at 6-6 at halftime.

The Ellies scored their eight points in the third quarter, fullback Pat La Maestra plunging over for the TD on a short drive and Grey racing for the two conversion points that won the game.

And Darryl Work broke loose around the left end in the fourth period for the Raiders, charging 50 yards for Red Hook's second touchdown. The all-important pass for the tying two points was broken up.

The statistics bear out the equality of the competition, with Red Hook holding a 178-136 edge rushing and Ellenville winning in the air 54 yards to 28. A difference of 70 yards penalized for the Raiders to only 10 for the Ellies proved an advantage.

Rye Defeats Rhinebeck 11

BEDFORD HILLS Rhinebeck's soccer team capped a successful season with a tense 1-0 loss to Rye Neck High School Saturday, playing for the Section One Class D championship.

Rye Neck came into the game with a 16-0 record and faced immense difficulties in conquering the Dutchess County school. The winning goal was scored at 11:06 of the fourth period by left wing Pete Grubb.

The goal came, according to Rhinebeck coach Ralph Stuart, when all hands gathered on the right side of the field and a crossfield pass found Grubb open for the shot.

Rye Neck's inside left, named Stagnole, had scored 44 goals this season, said Stuart, and he assigned a "closer than man-to-man" defense to him in the person of Bob McCarney. Stuart characterized Rye Neck as strong and fast.

There were no penalty kicks, and the teams were tied on corner kicks. Rhinebeck goalie Steve Skeene had 13 saves, and Jim Lynch of Rye Neck had eight.

Stuart said that halfback Rich Foss was "outstanding," and generally commended his team for a fine showing in their last game this season.

Rhinebeck may be hard-pressed to put as good as team on the field next season, as nine of eleven starters will graduate this year, but the jayvees have also put together a fine record.

The varsity finishes with 11 wins, four losses, including the sectional loss and the county championship, and two ties.

Dempsey's Boot Rates as First-Class Miracle

BUZIN BLOCKING! Giant tackle Dick Buzin (77) throws a block which stops Dallas defensive end Larry Cole (63) and allows Giant quarterback Fran Tarkenton (10) to get off a pass in second quarter action at Yankee Stadium yesterday. New York marched on to their fifth consecutive victory with a 23-20 triumph over the Cowboys. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Tarkenton - Johnson Dump Dallas, 23-20

NEW YORK (UPI) — Ron Johnson, who accounted for 189 yards in rushing and receiving, Howley's recovery of Tucker caught a 13-yard touchdown. But the Giants dominated the 3:03 remaining Sunday to give rest of the game and Johnson, the New York Giants their fifth consecutive victory, a 23-20 triumph over the Dallas Cowboys. The Cowboys, who led 17-9 at halftime with the help of two Craig Morton touchdown passes from Tarkenton late in the final lead to 20-9 midway in the third, After Johnson's first TD.

Pete Gogolak, who kicked field goals of 40, 42 and 54 yards, tried an onside kick and Joe Green recovered on the Dallas 4. The Giants marched to the Dallas two-yard line before Tarkenton was thrown back to the 22 on two successive plays and Gogolak then missed a 29-yard field goal attempt.

After the Cowboys were forced to punt twice and the Giants once, the Giants took over on their own 27 and Tarkenton tossed a pass to Cliff McNeil to the Cowboys' 41. He then threw a third down pass of 22 yards to Johnson to the Cowboys' 17 and then hit Johnson again on a third and five play for the winning score. The Cowboys had one more chance to get back into the game when sub receiver Reggie Rucker, who was just activated before the game, caught a Craig Morton pass on the Giant 10, but the official ruled that Rucker had not set properly and the play was called back to midfield.

The game was refereed by Bob Finley, who worked last Sunday's controversial Kansas City Oakland game, but this time there were no flare ups except for a brief second period scuffle that ended quickly.

The victory gave the Giants a 5-3 record and tied them with Dallas in the NFC's Eastern Division, one game behind the St. Louis Cardinals' 6-2 record. The Cowboys burned the Giants twice in the first half when Hayes beat Ken Parker on a 38-yard touchdown play and Willie Williams on an 80-yard touchdown strike. But the only other Dallas scoring was a 28-yard field goal by Clark in the first period.

The Giants, who lost three fumbles in the game, were held to the three Gogolak field goals in the first half. The last one was the 54-yarder on the final play of the half that set a Giant record.

Tom Dempsey had an angel on his shoulder and some magic in his foot.

"We got beaten by a miracle, what else can you say?" was all Detroit coach Joe Schmidt could say after Dempsey's record 63-yard field goal gave New Orleans a 19-17 National Football League upset Sunday.

The kick on the last play of the game appeared to be heaven-sent for the underdog Saints, who supposedly hadn't a prayer of winning.

The Saints' bull-strong booter had some faith he could make the distance, which bettered the 1956 mark of 56 yards by Baltimore's Bert Rechichar.

"I knew I could kick the ball that far, but whether or not I could kick it straight, kept running through my mind," Dempsey said. "I knew I had to hit the ball awfully hard and would need a little extra time. But the Lions held up perfectly and I got a perfect snap (from Joe Scarpati)."

The field goal had a field day in other NFL games Sunday. Cincinnati's Horst Muhlmann kicked five three-pointers as the Bengals bested Buffalo 43-14; George Blanda's 52-yarder helped Oakland trim Cleveland 23-20; Fred Cox sailed four field goals in Minnesota's 19-10 success over Washington; Mike Mercer's 38-yard boot was the difference in San Diego's 24-21 victory over Denver and Pete Gogolak ripped three as the New York Giants upset Dallas 23-20.

Atlanta and Los Angeles kicking wizard, came through played to a 10-10 tie: Philadelphia won its first game since Nov. 23, 1969 by beating Miami 24-17; San Francisco routed Chicago 37-16; Kansas City slugged Houston 24-9; St. Louis walloped Boston 31-0 and Pittsburgh topped the New York Jets 21-17 in the other games. Green Bay and Baltimore clashed in the Monday night television (ABC) game in Milwaukee's County Stadium.

Dempsey's booming drive cleared the cross-bar by mere inches, and he admitted it took some special ingredients.

"There's so much involved in kicking a 60-yard field goal," he said. "You've got to try and hit the ball as hard as you possibly can and yet, kicking it straight is a hard thing to do."

"It just happened that I hit it right that time and it happened at the right time."

Detroit appeared to have won it when Erroll Mann kicked an 18-yard field goal with 11 seconds to give the Lions a one-point lead.

But New Orleans' quarterback Billy Kilmer completed a pass to Al Dodd after the Detroit kickoff and Dodd went out of bounds at the Saints' 45 with two seconds left.

Then Dempsey, born toeless on his right kicking foot, did his thing.

Muhlmann drilled field goals of 22, 30, 13, 36 and 43 yards for Cincinnati, which snapped a six-game slide. Buffalo's O.J. Simpson suffered a severe bruise on his left leg.

Blanda, Oakland's 43-year-old kicking wizard, came through with his game-winner with three seconds left. He earlier relieved Daryle Lamonica at quarterback in the final period and threw a 14-yard touchdown pass and kicked the extra point.

Cox made good on attempts of 44, 17, 24 and 42 yards and Dave Osborn spun over from the one as Minnesota stopped Washington.

John Hadl fired three touchdown passes, two to Gary Garrison, and Mercer added the finishing touch for San Diego with his field goal.

Gogolak kicked the New York Giants into contention with his talented toe, then Ron Johnson sparked in a second-half comeback with two touchdowns. The Giants held off a determined Dallas scoring bid in the closing moments.

Roman Gabriel threw a four-yard scoring strike and David Ray kicked the extra point that pulled Los Angeles into a tie with underdog Atlanta.

Philadelphia had to stave off a fourth-quarter rally by battling Miami. Norm Snead had built a substantial Eagle lead on three TD tosses.

John Brodie completed 21 passes for San Francisco and moved into an elite class of quarterbacks with 2,000 or more lifetime completions. John Unitas, Y.A. Tittle and Sonny Jurgensen are the others.

Linebacker Bobby Bell latched onto a Houston pass and raced 45 yards for a Kansas City touchdown that broke open the rainstorm-slowed game.

MacArthur Lane broke loose on three touchdown runs and they were all the St. Louis Cardinals needed.

Pittsburgh handed the injured-laced New York Jets their sixth straight loss, as John Fuqua bulldozed over for two Steeler scores.

Kickers Win, 1-0

BROOKLYN the regular right halfback, was

Kassin Selimotic, the outside relegated to the role of substitute quite by accident. He was caught up in a massive traffic jam in New Jersey and arrived at the stadium 20 minutes after the opening kickoff. Tony Fitzharris opened in his slot.

Kickers had 23 shots on goal and Brooklyn 19 in a rather desultory contest. The hosts blew a half dozen easy chances for goals and other occasions were thwarted by the fine goal tending of Joel Tomson, who turned in another superb job in the nets.

Kingston held a 7-3 edge in corner kicks and turned over the ball a few more times than Brooklyn.

Selimotic scored on the end of a beautiful combination involving Karl Von Borkulu and Tony Fitzharris. Von Borkulu.

Knicks Survive 46-Point Splurge

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A National Basketball Association team scores 46 points in one period and it probably should win the game, right?

Wrong. The Portland Trail Blazers came out smoking with a 46-point fourth quarter, but wound up trailing the New York Knicks Sunday night.

Final: New York 125 Portland 113.

The Knicks actually had cooled off Portland with some hot hands of their own in Willis Reed, Walt Frazier and Cazzie Russell. They led by as many as 31 points in the third period.

Reed and Frazier had 28 points apiece and Russell, 21.

In Sunday's other NBA games, Seattle defeated Cleveland 111-105; Milwaukee stopped Phoenix 125-105 and Los Angeles turned back Baltimore 124-105.

In the American Basketball

Association, Memphis trimmed Pittsburgh 105-96; Utah stopped Indiana 111-103; New York's Nets topped Denver 114-104 and Carolina defeated the Floridians 122-115.

In the NBA Saturday night, it was Boston 140, Cincinnati 122; Philadelphia 134, Seattle 123; Phoenix 107, Atlanta 100; Chicago 125, Detroit 99; San Francisco 114, San Diego 102 and Buffalo 103, Cleveland 91.

Seattle overcame a 17-point deficit in handing the winless Cleveland Cavaliers their 14th straight defeat, one short of the NBA mark for consecutive losses at the start of the season.

The Cavaliers had a 44-27 margin midway through the second period, but Dick Snyder led a third-quarter comeback for the SuperSonics. Snyder, who scored a game-high 30 points, hit two free throws that put Seattle ahead for good in the fourth period.

Bob Dandridge hit 32 points and Lew Alcindor chipped in with 26 in Milwaukee's cause. A three-point play by Dandridge broke a 17-17 tie in the first quarter and the Bucks slowly pulled away.

Jerry West pocketed a season-high 41 points and got scoring support from Gail Goodrich's 21 points and Wilt Chamberlain's 20. Gus Johnson had 28 for Baltimore.

Is Mighty Nino Finito?

ROME (AP)—Is Nino through? That was the question the Italians posed this weekend as Nino Benvenuti, the pride and powerhouse of their country, succumbed to the thunderous right of Argentina's Carlos Monzon.

With that right hook—in the 12th round—the world middleweight boxing crown slipped away from Italy, also casting doubts on Benvenuti's future.

He is, after all, 32 years of age and no longer the speedster he was when he won the gold medal in the 1960 Rome Olympics.

After losing only two fights in the first eight years of his professional career, Benvenuti has now dropped three of his last seven decisions, two of them by knockouts.

But he is convinced he still is not over the hill — and he wants a rematch against the Argentine who engineered Nino's first defeat in his homeland.

"I still feel worthy to fight at the world level," he said after losing the title, "adding that Monzon 'must not deny me the chance for a rematch'."

Asked if he would fight his way back the top by facing minor opponents, Nino snapped: "I will never again fight back in the provinces. Not after those fights at the Madison Square Garden with 20,000 people there, not after fighting before television viewers."

"It would be too sad. I couldn't bear it."

Nino said that if he felt he wasn't up to fighting for the world championship again, he would end his ring career.

Monzon, victorious in his first crack at the title at the age of 28, and his manager say they'll be happy to face Nino again, although the contract for the fight Saturday contained no such provision.

But, said Tito Lectoure, Argentina's prime promoter: "There are other boxers who have priority over Benvenuti."

The reaction on the part of the fighters was a stark contrast. Monzon, according to UPI, dazed by the unexpected triumph, shook his head and asked Manager Amilcar Bursa to repeat what he shouted.

"You are the champion," Bruno shouted.

The 28-year-old Argentine middleweight shook his head again.

"I'm so happy," he said. "I wanted to win. I thought I would win. But always it comes as a surprise when a world champion goes down."

Monzon was not the first man to knock Nino down. Emile Griffith, the man Benvenuti beat in 1968 to take the title, also felled him.

The slim, trim Monzon, who weighed in at the 170-pound limit, had predicted victory when he arrived in Rome.

"If Benvenuti is fast," he said, "then I am faster. If he is tough, I am tougher. I am willing to fight him again."

Monzon, who resides in Jamaica, is teaching at P.S. 155 in New York City.

Hill who starred at Gorton High, Yonkers, played four years of varsity basketball at Siena from 1952-1956. He is considered one of the finest jump shooters to ever perform for the Indians.

Although his individual game his club was 7-13.

UCCCC Rips Bronx, 6-1

KINGSTON

Ulster County Community College's high flying soccer squad demolished Bronx Community College, 6-1, in its final tunic before the Region XV tournament opener against powerful Staten Island today at 2 p.m. at West Point.

The win closed out the regular 1970 season for the Senators with a record of 8 wins and 4 losses.

Levi Knutsen drilled three goals to bring his seasonal total to 33 believed to be an all-time Region XV record.

Coach George Vizvary was in a confident mood as the Senators won the biggest test in the college's brief soccer history.

"I think the boys are ready for this one," said Coach Vizvary. "We're up for the game and they're ready to give their best effort. It could be a tough game that could go either way, but we'll not beat ourselves."

Vizvary recalled his early season statement that nobody would beat Ulster unless they beat themselves. After dropping three of their first four games, the Senators rebounded to take seven of their next eight.

The team's fine scoring balance was again reflected in the goal summary. Knutsen led with three, Tim Crawford the reserve outside right who got a starting assignment contributed two goals, with the others going to Gerard Lee-Hing and Klaus Weber.

Crawford, who came to UCCCC from Germantown, was a standout with his two goals and an assist on a Knutsen score.

Weber, one of the finest all-around players in the region, was credited with two assists on Knutsen goals.

"Crawford gave us a very fine game," said Coach Vizvary. "He has good, natural ability and I'm sure he'll finish at a good soccer school."

Ulster had 46 shots on goal compared to 24 for Bronx Community. Sirgurd Samuelson, the UCCCC goalie, picked off 18 saves, while Bronx's Toskos had 19. The Senators had a 3-1 edge in corner kicks.

Brandt's Party Favored In Election Returns

WIESBADEN, Germany (UPI) — Election results in the state of Hesse gave Chancellor Willy Brandt's Bonn government a boost today for its attempt to negotiate a settlement with the Communist world.

The opposition Christian Democrats concentrated their attack in Hesse on the government's foreign policy. Although Brandt's Social Democrats and the Free Democrats of Foreign Minister Walter Scheel lost some votes, political observers interpreted it as an overall government win.

Officials said results were: Social Democrats 45.9 per cent, down 5.1 per cent from four years ago; Christian Democrats 39.7 per cent, up 13.3 per cent; Free Democrats 10.1 per cent, down 4 per cent; National Democrats 3.1 per cent, down 4.8 per cent, and Communists 1.2 per cent.

The free Democrats, whose backing give Brandt the necessary votes to maintain a parliamentary majority, have had several defections recently. A bad showing at the polls probably would have meant more defections and might have cost Brandt his majority.

Instead, they suffered only a slight loss, a surprise to many observers who had predicted their downward trend would continue.

Scheel, visiting Warsaw to work out an agreement with the Communist government, said he felt the election results had strengthened his hand in negotiations with Poland over a treaty to normalize relations.

The election also signaled rejection of the right and left extremist parties. The National Democratic Party, regarded by many as neo-Nazi, was reduced by about two-thirds in the Hesse vote while the Communists campaigning for the first time, won only 1.2 per cent.

Yippies Storm Stage At David Frost Show

LONDON (UPI) — Perhaps it would never have happened if David Frost had agreed to smoke pot with Jerry Rubin.

Rubin, a founder of the American Youth International (Yippie) party, had just lit a cigarette on Frost's live British television program Saturday evening.

Laughing, he offered it to the British-born master of ceremonies, suggesting it was a marijuana "joint" and would do them both good. Frost smiled and shook his head, turning it down.

That did it. At a nod from Rubin, about 20 hippies rose from their places in the studio audience and advanced on the stage, sprinkling flower-petals and four-letter obscenities as they came.

Millions Watch

Millions watched as the shaggy-haired Rubin, free on bail pending appeal of his conviction for inciting to riot while a defendant at the "Chicago Seven" trial, puffed on his cigarette and laughed. Frost made his way to a seat in the audience.

Rubin told Frost he and his followers wanted to topple Western society and replace it with one not oriented to money.

"If you're so much against money," Frost asked, controlling his temper, "why did you demand twice the fee we normally pay guests for appearing on the show?"

"Why not?" Rubin said. "We're going to use it to buy bombs to destroy your society."

Frost tried to answer—and got a water pistol squirted in his face.

Author-playwright Robert Ardrey, Frost's next guest, leaped to his feet. "When are you going to reach puberty?" he shouted. "I have never seen such an infantile performance."

Group Leaves Stage

Frost and Ardrey, author of ecological-anthropological studies such as "The Territorial Imperative" and "African Genesis," then sat in angry silence until the hippie-Yippie group left the stage during a commercial break. The two men then rose and walked onstage to applause from the audience.

"I suspect this has turned out as the most powerful commercial for law and order," Frost said. "I don't think Jerry Rubin made too many converts tonight."

Officials of the British Independent Television Network, which screened the show, said they planned to investigate. But they said no changes were anticipated in the network's policy of sending the Frost program out live.

Court Convenes

DUBLIN (UPI) — A special court convened today to hear charges against 23 suspects arrested with a cache of weapons over the weekend in a crackdown on cross-border extremists.

Police said they believed all the men — eight arrested in Dublin and 15 at the border town of Dundalk — were from Northern Ireland.

High School Teachers Should Get Highest Pay

GROSSINGER, N. Y. (AP) — High school and junior high school teachers "should be the highest paid members" of the educational system, a state university president told parents and teachers Sunday.

Dr. Louis T. Benetz, president of the State University at Albany, said the teachers' salaries should be higher than those of college professors because they have a bigger role than professors in guiding students and "influencing individual character."

Benetz gave the keynote address to 800 persons attending the New York State Congress of Parents and Teachers.

Today, in their first working session, delegates are to vote on a legislative program including issues such as gun control, drug, abuse, school security and the tax-exempt status of real property.

The meeting ends Tuesday.

50 Families Camp Out in Rome Protest

ROME (UPI) — Fifty families from Rome shantytowns camped out on a downtown street today to protest housing conditions.

The families had occupied illegally an empty apartment building awaiting renovation and were evicted Sunday morning. They joined a march on St. Peter's Square that arrived a few minutes before Pope Paul VI appeared at a window of his apartment to give his Sunday blessing.

As the Pope started speaking, the demonstrators shouted: "Houses, houses, we want houses." Some of the demonstrators honked automobile horns.

Later, some of the shanty dwellers went to the central Via Cavour near the Colosseum and camped on the sidewalk with chairs, tables and other belongings. Rain at night drove many of them to shelter.

CD Auxiliary Meet

A meeting of the Kingston-Ulster County Civil Defense Auxiliary Police will be held tonight at 7:30 o'clock at Odd Fellows Hall, Brewster Street. A full attendance of members is anticipated.

Patrol Stays In Henderson

By United Press International

National Guardsmen and state troopers patrolled Henderson, N.C., today and police reported an uneasy calm at Daytona Beach, Fla. There was racial violence in both cities over the weekend.

A curfew also was in effect in Henderson, where a tobacco warehouse was burned and police fired upon by snipers Friday night. About a dozen persons were charged with violating the curfew. Sunday night, but authorities said the situation was quiet.

Officials indicated they would decide today whether to release all or part of 350 guardsmen and 10 troopers sent to Henderson by North Carolina Gov. Bob Scott.

A third night of sporadic sniper fire erupted Sunday night at Daytona Beach and at least three firebombings were reported. Saturday police were fired upon 150 times, but none was hit.

Police Chief A. O. Folsom gave the order to shoot back Sunday, and at least one policeman was struck by a bullet. All 290 Daytona Beach policemen remained on duty, answering scattered reports of fires and gunshots.

At the peak of the disturbances Saturday night, 10 businesses were hit with firebombs, including a nightclub on the edge of town, and Volusia County Sheriff Richard Melton was fired upon as he patrolled with three deputies. Melton's patrol car was hit by shots fired from a passing car, and he arrested five Negro men and confiscated several weapons when he caught the vehicle.

Henderson blacks are pressing a list of 20 demands, most of them dealing with alleged discriminatory practices of the Vance County School Board. Among them is the hiring of a black athletic coach by the board.

Dear Abby

Lady of His Choice

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am a recently divorced man, in my early fifties. I am considered good looking, still trim and vigorous, dress well and have done very well financially, so, lonesome, I'm not.

Before the ink was dry on my divorce papers, I started getting calls from friends. "Boy, have I got a girl for you!"

Don't misunderstand, Abby, I enjoy the company of the opposite sex, but I like to select my own. When I'm invited to dinner, I'm asked to pick some lady who will be my "date" for the evening, then I have to take her home. Or else, I am paired up with somebody's middle-aged sister-in-law, who could haunt a house.

Question: When I'm invited out, would it be proper for me to say, "I am bringing my own lady?"

If it's my company they want, they should welcome me and a lady of my choice. If all they want me for is to escort someone of their choice, they can forget it. Correct me, if I'm wrong.

NOBODY'S FOOL IN L.A. DEAR ABBY: When invited to dinner, always insist upon bringing your own lady, and you'll soon find out if you're wanted for yourself or not.

DEAR ABBY: I had a laugh at the man who wrote in about his wife always counting calories. I wish his wife and mine could get together and reach a happy medium.

I am married to a woman who must have put on 80 pounds since I married her seven years ago. Needless to say, I am ashamed to be seen with her. The rest of us eat sensibly, but my wife shovels in the bread, potatoes and sweets like there is no tomorrow. I've talked to her and so have her friends and members of my family and hers, too, but it does no good. At age 26 I am ready to take my love-making elsewhere because my wife is so repulsive. Why do I stay? Because I love my kids and I suppose I still love the girl under all that blubber.

FATTY'S HUSBAND DEAR HUSBAND: Her first move should be in the direction of a doctor. She eats because she's unhappy, and one of the reasons she's unhappy is because she's fat. If you love her, don't quit talking to her!

DEAR ABBY: I was interested in the letter signed "VERY MAD," from the "domestic" who is always introduced as "our Marybelle" as she had no last name.

You say the employer probably does it more out of "affection."

Then it would seem to me that the domestic, out of "affection," should be able to call the employer by HER first name, which I am sure the employer would neither encourage nor tolerate.

The relationship of domestic and employer in an "our Marybelle" situation sounds more like possession than affection—something that was supposed to have gone out with the Civil War.

P.K.: CLEVELAND

DEAR ABBY: I have been a "domestic" for many years and I never felt put down because I was called "William." I have worked for people who were younger enough to be my children, and I never expected them to call me "mister" or show "respect" for me or my age. The title doesn't give the person dignity nor the person respect. It is the person who gives the job dignity.

I think a lot of people are looking for something to be mad about these days.

I would rather have my employer shake my hand or pat me on the shoulder and call me "William," than stand two feet away from me and call me "Mr. Adams." I know I am respected and I have no complaints about what I'm called.

DEAR ABBY: In reply to "MINNESOTA GIRL," relative to hitch hiking, I wish to make the following comments:

I am now in the process of investigating a case in which a 19-year-old girl also thought that hitching a ride with a stranger was cheaper and safer than taking a bus. She was picked up by a "nice guy" who made advances to her. When he refused to stop, the girl opened the door and jumped out. The car was traveling about 50 mph. Needless to say, the girl required hospital treatment.

Very truly yours, DETECTIVE: WATERFORD, CONN.

CARROLL RIGHTER'S HOROSCOPE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You can utilize the morning to great advantage by devising a new course of action with the assistance of well-informed and prominent men. You will then be able to bring these plans into the open in the afternoon and evening and can easily show others how they can join you in them successfully.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Begins week properly by clearing the decks of responsibilities that need immediate attention. You can then start new plans with others. Get out of that rut you have been in for so long.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Improve your credit rating by showing others that you pay your bills and take care of responsibilities. Talk over with mate how to have more happiness in the future.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Get routine work done early and then out to plan better things for the future with associates, or take care of other important duties. If you cooperate more with others, you may solve several problems.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Morning is the best time for recreation, but work needs your attention in the afternoon. Show your interest in others by backing them. You can do much to help them gain their ambitions.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Plan how you can get family to cooperate with you on constructive plans. A new attitude on their part is important. Take them out later to enjoy the kind of recreation they like.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Get your shopping and errands done early, keep appointments on time, then sit down and talk matters over at home. Keep accounts accurately. Evening is best time for social activities and fun.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) First make sure you keep appointments you have made, do your shopping and other chores before you sit down to discuss matters with kin. Complete some important business deal. Act with wisdom.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Plan social and pleasurable events early before getting into that monetary matter you must handle today. By evening you can have fine results, adopt a more satisfactory budget and do something about improving health.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You are able to take care of secret matters very well in A.M., and then you can do whatever most pleases you. Experts give you excellent advice which should be put into action later in the day.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Follow good suggestions a friend makes before you dig into that new plan you have. Fulfill a personal wish also, and plan for the future more wisely. Avoid large expenditures of money.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You can gain the support of an influential person for whatever it is you have in mind now. Showing your finest talents is relatively easy. Try not to lose your temper with others.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Communicating with out-of-towners is possible in A.M. and it is a good time to think out some new plan. Present your ideas to bigwigs. Listen to what persons of different backgrounds have to suggest. This can be helpful.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY, he or she will be one of those clever and fortunate young people who will easily gain support of bigwigs throughout the lifetime, so be sure to give the finest education you can afford to prepare for a most successful future. Much travel is denoted in the chart as well as understanding of persons of and from different countries. Politics, teaching, lecturing, law and similar professions all are excellent. Give ethical training early and some discipline.

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

UGLIER? (Q.) I'm getting uglier as I grow older. When boys see me they say, "What a dog!" My personality is OK, but I don't get a chance because of my face. It turns boys off.

You'll probably say something like "Beauty is only skin deep." That won't help me attract boys.

Here are the worst things: My complexion is a little bad. I'm thin. And I have curly hair and wear it in a pony tail. I want to wear it down, but it won't hang straight like my friends' hair does. It's so curly it sticks out everywhere. — 15 and Depressed in New Jersey.

(A.) I don't believe you're getting uglier. I believe you are just learning what nearly every teen-age girl learns: Nature by itself is seldom enough.

If your face needs help, a pony tail is the worst style you can wear. It doesn't decorate, and you need decoration. The best way to wear naturally curly hair is in a short cut with height. If you insist on long hair, go to a beauty salon and have it straightened and styled.

Once you get your hair under control, learn to use make-up effectively. Also learn to smile, and smile often. These are simple remedies but they work.

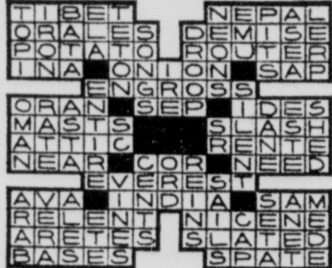

RECEPTION SUIT: (Q.) Would a dressy pantsuit be suitable for a girl of 15 (me) to wear to a wedding reception? My mother hasn't made up her mind yet whether it's feminine enough, and she says to ask you.—Pants Fan in Southfield, Mich.

(A.) A dressy pantsuit would be most acceptable for a wedding reception.

EXCEPTION to the RULE

London Taps Outspoken Banker for U.S. Post

LONDON (AP) — Britain's Conservative government has named as its ambassador to Washington an outspoken banker who says, "It will be important to explain to the Americans why we must move closer to Europe."

The government announced today that the 52-year-old Earl of Cromer, head of the great 19th century banking family of Baring, will replace journalist-politician John Freeman in Britain's No. 1 diplomatic post.

Cromer was British economic minister in Washington from 1959 to 1961 and for the next five years was governor of the Bank of England, one of the nation's most influential financial positions. His plain speaking in that post was at times a thorn to both the Conservatives who appointed him and the Laborites who inherited him in 1964. But his prestige in the international banking world was considered a major factor in the rescue of the pound early in the Laborite term.

Many observers also credit Cromer with a decisive influence in the June election that brought Prime Minister Edward Heath to power. Speaking on television, he challenged the Labor Government's claim that it had strengthened the nation's economy by wiping out the balance of payments deficit.

Cromer's appointment to Washington drew cheers in British financial circles, but the Financial Times warned that his success "will depend partly upon whether he can establish a close personal relationship with the President."

The business daily added that this would be difficult as "Mr. Nixon has close personal relationships with few people."

Cromer commented to one interviewer: "I knew President Nixon when he was vice president, and we have had several serious talks."

The new envoy told well-wishers today:

"I see the important part of my new job in the area of commerce and trade and in the dollar-sterling relationship during the Common Market monetary developments. I look forward to working to further the interests of Britain and the United States."

Government officials and bankers in both countries fear a monetary and tariff war may develop in the next few years.

Many in Britain fear that the United States will soon impose quotas on textiles and perhaps some other imports. The Common Market countries would retaliate against American sales to Europe.

Saturn 5 Rocket Makes First Moon Move Today

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The Apollo 14 astronauts watched today as their Saturn 5 rocket made its first move toward the moon — a ponderous 3½-mile journey from the assembly building to the launch pad.

Alan B. Shepard Jr., Stuart A. Roosa and Edgar D. Mitchell were at a viewing site a few hundred feet away as the rocket moved out of its hangar at 6:30 a.m., standing upright on the broad back of a tank-like transporter.

The transporter travels at maximum speed of one mile an hour and the trip to the launch pad was to take several hours.

Shepard, Roosa and Mitchell are to blast off for the moon Jan. 31, reaching a speed of nearly 25,000 miles an hour.

Shepard, America's first

Mitchell are to attempt to land in the moon's rugged Fra Mauro highlands to search for pristine lunar soil that might provide clues to the origin of the moon.

Fra Mauro had been the intended target for Apollo 13 before an oxygen tank explosion while design changes have been made in the spaceship.

The new system in the service module includes three oxygen tanks instead of two, removal of most electrical wiring and all combustible materials from inside the tanks, elimination of stirring fans and thermal switches, electrical wires sheathed in stainless steel and a better warning system to alert the astronauts and ground controllers in case of trouble.

The space agency had hoped to install the new oxygen tanks before the command, service and lunar modules were mated to the rocket last week. But the tanks are still undergoing checks and will be installed on the launch pad later this month.

Time Running Out for GM On New Lines This Year

DETROIT (UPI) — Unless agreement is reached this week on a three-year contract between General Motors and the United Auto Workers, it is doubtful GM's production lines will start rolling until the new year.

This is because ratification of a contract and plant preparations would prevent the nation's largest automaker from resuming operations again for almost three weeks after the settlement is reached at the bargaining table. Local issues left unresolved could set the schedule back even further.

Artificial deadlines for agreement on a national pact have been set by both sides in the 55-day-old strike.

Chief GM negotiator Earl R. Bramblett has set Tuesday as the day when agreement must be reached if the company is to resume full production before Dec. 1. The UAW put itself under the gun by calling a special conference of its 350-member GM Council here Wednesday.

Delegates were asked in telegrams from UAW President Leonard Woodcock to "come prepared to stay." They also were requested to step up their efforts to break local contract deadlocks.

Two tentative local settlements were reported Sunday, one at a plant considered key—the Saginaw, Mich., steering gear facility, which employs 6,500 workers. The other agreement was reported at the Windsor, Ont., trim plant, which employs 1,300.

Five of seven Canadian plants have achieved tentative settlements, while 76 of 155 local bargaining units in the United States—35 of them key—have settled their differences.

Negotiators in the main table bargaining sessions, which have been held under a news blackout for the past 10 days, appeared to be intensifying their efforts to end the strike, which has idled some 400,000

GM workers and thousands of Americans in related industries. One source said there had been movement on both sides on the major economic issues. If GM is unable to meet the

The Nader Group Looks at Health Care

WASHINGTON (AP) — Study of hospital admissions Americans cannot be certain of that showed 57 per cent of the adequate health care because doctors and government officials tolerate the poor practice of medicine, says a Ralph Nader study group.

The report, written by a former federal health official with 98 per cent of U.S. medical help from medical and law students, chronicles a long list of fully completed by only 40 per cent of students from foreign schools. Yet, the United States is so desperate for doctors that the foreign graduates "leak" into the American medical system anyway, the commission said.

A Kansas surgeon who reported that, despite ample post-prescription educational programs offered to doctors in the state over a 10-year period, 48 per cent of the doctors did not take advantage of the courses.

The report proposed that doctors be subjected to relicensing tests, and that they be certified to practice only in a specific field.

The Nader group was directed by Dr. Robert S. McCleery, a 57-year-old surgeon and former deputy director of the Food and Drug Administration's bureau of medicine.

The report proposed the federal government establish a national board to work with doctors in setting medical care standards.

"Every citizen is at the mercy of a system devoid of uniform, enforced standards of quality and must run the risks implied in the statistics of uneven levels of care among hospitals and physicians," said the report.

Dec. 1 resumption of production deadline set by Bramblett by coming to agreement with the UAW this week, some observers believe the company would be reluctant to start up before the new year. By delaying the return to work, GM would save more than $100 million it otherwise would have to pay for the Christmas New Year's week holiday.

The walkout has cost the company, the union, the workers and federal, state and local government hundreds of millions of dollars since it began at midnight, Sept. 14.
